

MYTEMIN The SAFE
ELECTRIC
CHAIN PULLEY BLOCK
by KING
GILMAN'S

THE WEATHER

Moderate to fresh easterly winds. Fair. At 1 pm at the Observatory the temperature was 77 degrees F and the humidity 64 per cent.

LATE FINAL

13 JETS WEEKLY TO THE
USA
PHONE 37031
PAN AMERICAN

CHINA MAIL

No. 38126

Established 1845
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1961.

Price 20 Cents.

Comment
of the day

JUSTICE

ON Saturday the China Mail published a news item which told of how a 28-year-old white South African motorist ran down nine African policemen, killing five and maiming three others. When he was brought to court, he was sentenced to only three years' imprisonment. The judge rather naively remarking that the conduct of the guilty man was that of one who had taken too much drink.

The point which emerges from this is that we are so used to injustice that we are prepared to tolerate it anywhere except when it affects us personally. Yet it is an abomination that such a perversion of legal proceedings can be tolerated among men who invoke the term Justice. Indeed, there are so many who are ignorant or unaware of what justice is, that such a legal outrage can pass without comment among people who imagine that justice is a flexible term which alters its meaning from race to race or colour to colour.

INDEED, the denotation of justice does vary from institution to institution and from country to country, for with due regard to expediency justice has been invoked for the most inhuman crimes this century has seen. In the name of justice, a whole race was assigned to a lethal chamber; in the name of justice people have been uprooted and sent into exile. In the name of justice, whole towns have been destroyed; and in the name of justice, people have been declared guilty merely on account of the colour of their skins or of the language they use. No nation on earth is guiltless; on some account every nation in turn stands guilty before the bar of history. The fault lies not so much in the dastardly fury of tribal remainders which exist in every nation, so much as the hazy conception of what justice is. A glance at the dictionary is singularly disappointing, for the definition which comes closest to what we feel is justice remarks that it is the exercise of authority in maintenance of right.

But then authority is always right at the time, and invokes just the definition the dictionary gives, and so the miserable condition continues until a stronger authority emerges to redress the actions of the former. Yet because men cannot assume to the high aspirations they vaguely entertain, there also exists a feeling of disappointment right through the human race.

FOR men know, their very intelligence tells them, that before they can progress and escape the primitive remainders which drag them backwards to the crudities of tribe and totem, there must be a universal definition of the word Justice. Such a definition must be beyond the arid conceptions of race privilege or class boundaries; it must have a connection which squares with the loftiest principles which exist in mankind. It must know no fear, it must not depend upon expediency. Its application must be as clear in understanding to the rural worker as to the distant pedant. It must express a wish which at this moment lies locked in the hearts of men of goodwill the whole world over. Let right be done!

Fled while music distracted Vopos

Göettingen, Nov. 6. Music from a West German band helped 14 East Germans escape to the West near here on Sunday. It was learned today. The fugitives—two families of land workers and an elderly couple—planned their escape in simple fashion. They waited for the band of the "Bachelors Association" at Kirchgangern—a village just across the East-West border—to open their weekly Sunday afternoon dance. East German guards were reportedly too distracted to notice the group as they quietly slipped across the border. —AFP.

Search for disaster survivors goes on

London, Nov. 6. Three seamen were dead and 58 missing from the 7,129-ton British cargo steamer, Clan Keith, which blew up and sank off northwest Tunisia, the Admiralty announced today. The Admiralty's latest reports state that seven members of the 68-man crew had been picked up by lifeboats following the explosion at 1830 GMT. The cause of the blast is not known. Meanwhile, ships of four nations are searching in gales and heavy seas for survivors. The steamer, carrying a crew of 68—54 Pakistanis, 11 Britons, and three South Africans.

ON SCENE
Five ships of the British Mediterranean Fleet and a Shackleton aircraft are on the scene, headed by the Cruiser Blake. The others are the Fleet Auxiliary tanker, Blue Ranger, the frigates Plymouth and Rhyl and the destroyer, Diana. HMS Blake, directing rescue operations, radioed that it had patrolled the waters where the Clan Keith sank, without finding any sign of life. The Clan Keith, whose home port was Glasgow, had left Middlesbrough on October 14 with a cargo for the British India Company.—AFP and Reuters.

DUST FROM DEATH CLOUD

London, Nov. 6. A spokesman for the British Atomic Energy Commission said here tonight that a sample of air taken at Chilton, Berkshire, last Saturday showed an appreciable decrease in radioactive content over one taken in the same location last Wednesday. The cloud containing radioactive dust from the explosion of the Soviet superbomb today passed over northern Scotland, he added. The radioactive cloud, which is several hundred miles across and travelling from east to west at an altitude of about 30,000 feet, was expected to return to Soviet skies between tonight and tomorrow morning, after having travelled completely around the world in a little more than a week.—AFP.

Two-minute 'incident' at Shamshuipo

Part of the crowd which had come to greet Princess Alexandra broke through the street cordon in Shamshuipo at about 10 o'clock today and surrounded her car and temporarily stopped it. A large number of enthusiastic spectators milled in confusion around the royal party's open car, forced it to halt, and were then driven back by police who emerged from cars in the procession.

The incident lasted perhaps two minutes. And then the Princess continued her journey without further hitch to see the armed forces in the New Territories.

She left Government House, crossed to Kowloon in the launch of the Commander, British Forces, and was then driven to San Wai camp.

As she passed through each village, hundreds of children greeted her waving flags and banners, were many colourful arches with the words "Welcome Princess Alexandra" on them.

Presented

At San Wai, Lieut. Gen. Sir Roderick McLeod, greeted her and presented his wife, Lady McLeod, the Commander 48 Gurkha Infantry Brigade Group, Brigadier S. P. M. Kent, Mrs. Kent, and various Gurkha officers.

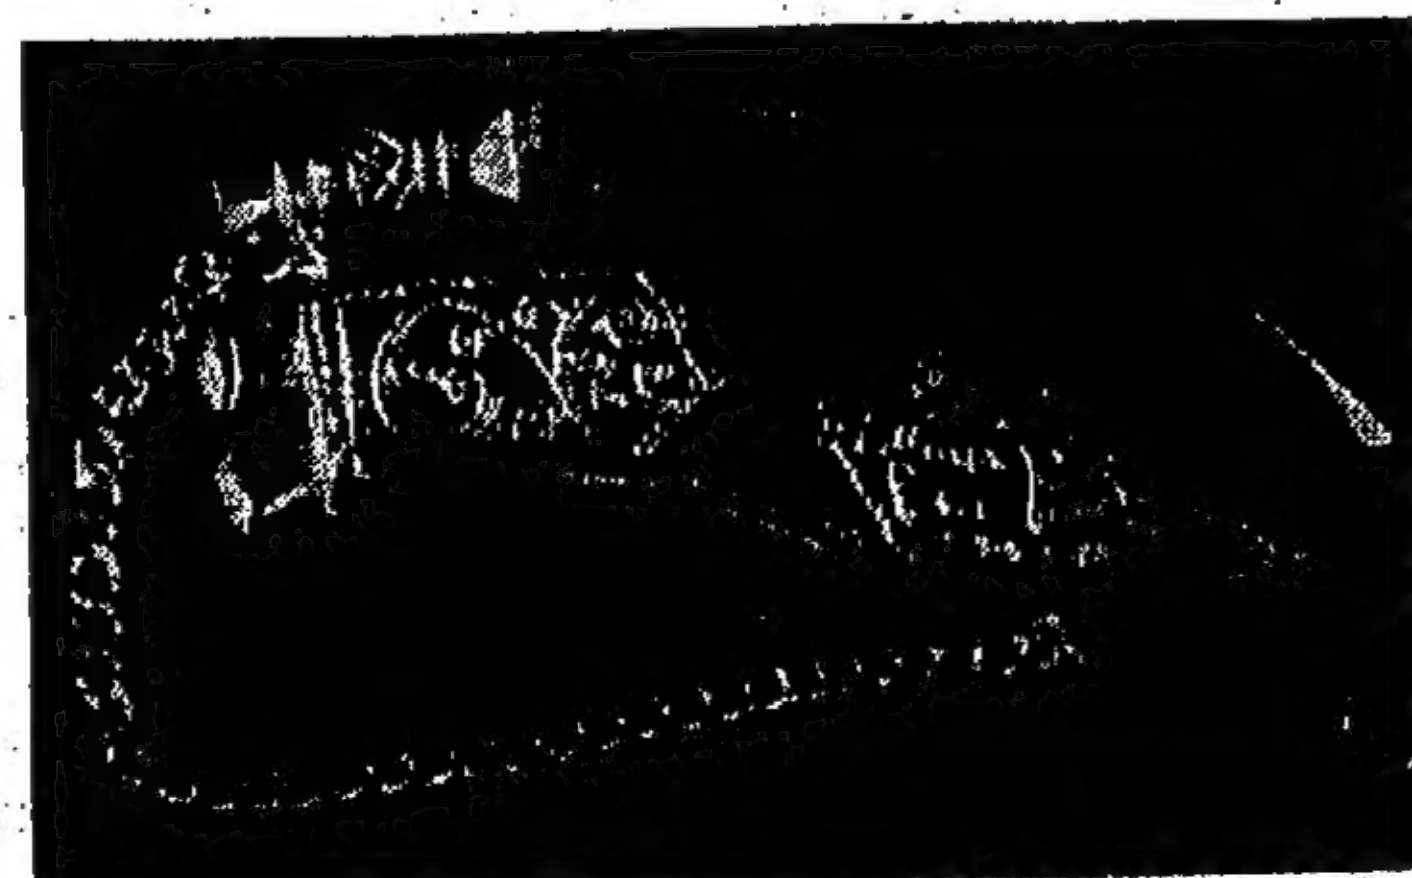

Princess Alexandra was then entertained by the children of the Gurkha personnel who performed traditional harvest dances for her. She was obviously delighted with the performance, and afterwards spoke to many of the children individually.

Before she left San Wai, Princess Alexandra parted from her scheduled route and looked at some married quarters. Then she walked the length of the camp main road, speaking personally to dozens of soldiers' wives and children. At one point she offered her hand to a Chinese woman who had a child strapped to her back. The woman smiled shyly and held out her left hand for the Princess.

Gazelle

The royal visitor also spoke to Lance Corporal G. S. Cartwright, one of the keepers of Bobby, an Arabian gazelle mascot of the 1st Bn Royal Warwickshire Regiment. "What do you feed him on?" asked the Princess. "Oats, hay and fresh fruit, mostly fresh fruit," said L/Cpl Cartwright.

The Princess wore a two-piece dress in paisley foulard, coloured terracotta, turquoise and brown. The jumper top had a high neck with an easy skirt gathered on to a waist band. She wore a turquoise velvet hat and brown shoes and handbag.

A photograph of the gold kukri brooch which was presented to Princess Alexandra this morning when she visited San Wai Camp in the New Territories.

The brooch was presented by Mrs. Balbhadur Tamang on behalf of the Brigade of Gurkhas. Mrs. Balbhadur Tamang is the wife of Major Balbhadur Tamang, MVO, MM, who was Orderly Officer to the Queen between June 1956-May 1959, and is at present serving with the 4/10

HK WATER SUPPLY TO BE CUT

The present 12-hour daily supply of water in the Colony is to be reduced to 10 from Thursday, November 9.

Water will continue to be given in two periods, in the morning from 6 am to 11 am and, in the evening, from 4 pm to 9 pm.

Announcing this today, the Water Authority stated that the reduction is necessary in order to bring down consumption which has been running at an average of 81 to 82 million gallons a day.

Now that the dry season has set in, it is necessary to try to reduce this figure, the Authority said.

NUCLEAR POWERS OVER RULED U.N. CALLS FOR RENEWAL OF TEST BAN

United Nations, Nov. 6. Despite opposition of the world's four nuclear powers, the General Assembly today called for immediate renewal of an uninspected moratorium on nuclear weapons tests.

The vote on the proposal made by India and five other powers was 71-20 with 8 abstentions.

The Assembly ratification of the appeal for a renewed moratorium came only a few hours

Princess Alexandra acknowledges cheers at the Police Pier, Kowloon, as she drove to the New Territories.

AUTOBAHN DEATHS

Duisberg, Nov. 6. One man was killed and five seriously injured when 126 vehicles were involved in a mass pile-up on the Autobahn near here today, police reported.

Several cars collided in fog on a bridge and the rest piled into them, 19 people were slightly hurt.—Reuters.

Lord Harding advocates cut in HK garrison

London, Nov. 6. Lord Harding, a former Chief of the Imperial General Staff, said today that the British Army was overstrained and units were under strength.

The army had too many commitments and cuts could start from the Far East. He was speaking in a television interview recorded during the day and shown tonight. Bases which could be reduced included Hongkong, Malaya and Singapore, he suggested. "I cannot see that the troops in Libya serve any purpose beyond a political one," he added.

THREE DEAD, FOUR

HURT, 1 MISSING

Another fire on the USS Constellation

Washington, Nov. 6. A fire on board the new carrier Constellation today killed three men, injured four, and resulted in one missing, the U.S. Navy said tonight.

The fire, the second which has occurred on the big 77,000-ton carrier, occurred as the Constellation was heading for New York after sailing from Norfolk last Saturday. The Navy said the fire started when fuel oil in a boiler room sprayed on a hot steam pipe. The accident occurred about 4 pm.

CIVILIAN

The dead included two Navy men and one civilian. Three Navy men and one civilian were injured and one civilian was missing. Last December 10, while the Constellation was being built at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, fire broke out in a wooden construction aboard the ship, killing 60 persons and injuring several hundred. That fire delayed completion of the Constellation by months and added about US$47 million to the original cost of the ship. The vessel was about 88 per cent complete when the fire occurred.—AP.

Mystery blast goes off in Accra

Accra, Nov. 6. A mystery explosion reverberated through Accra tonight, and police poured through the city in a bid to trace it.

An Accra official said the explosion was traced to near the National Potteries Building between Parliament House and big Black Star Square.

At the nearby Accra Club, a steward said the explosion sounded much heavier than the one on Saturday morning which damaged the Kwame Nkrumah statue, nearly toppling it from its plinth in the grounds of Parliament House.

OBVIOUS

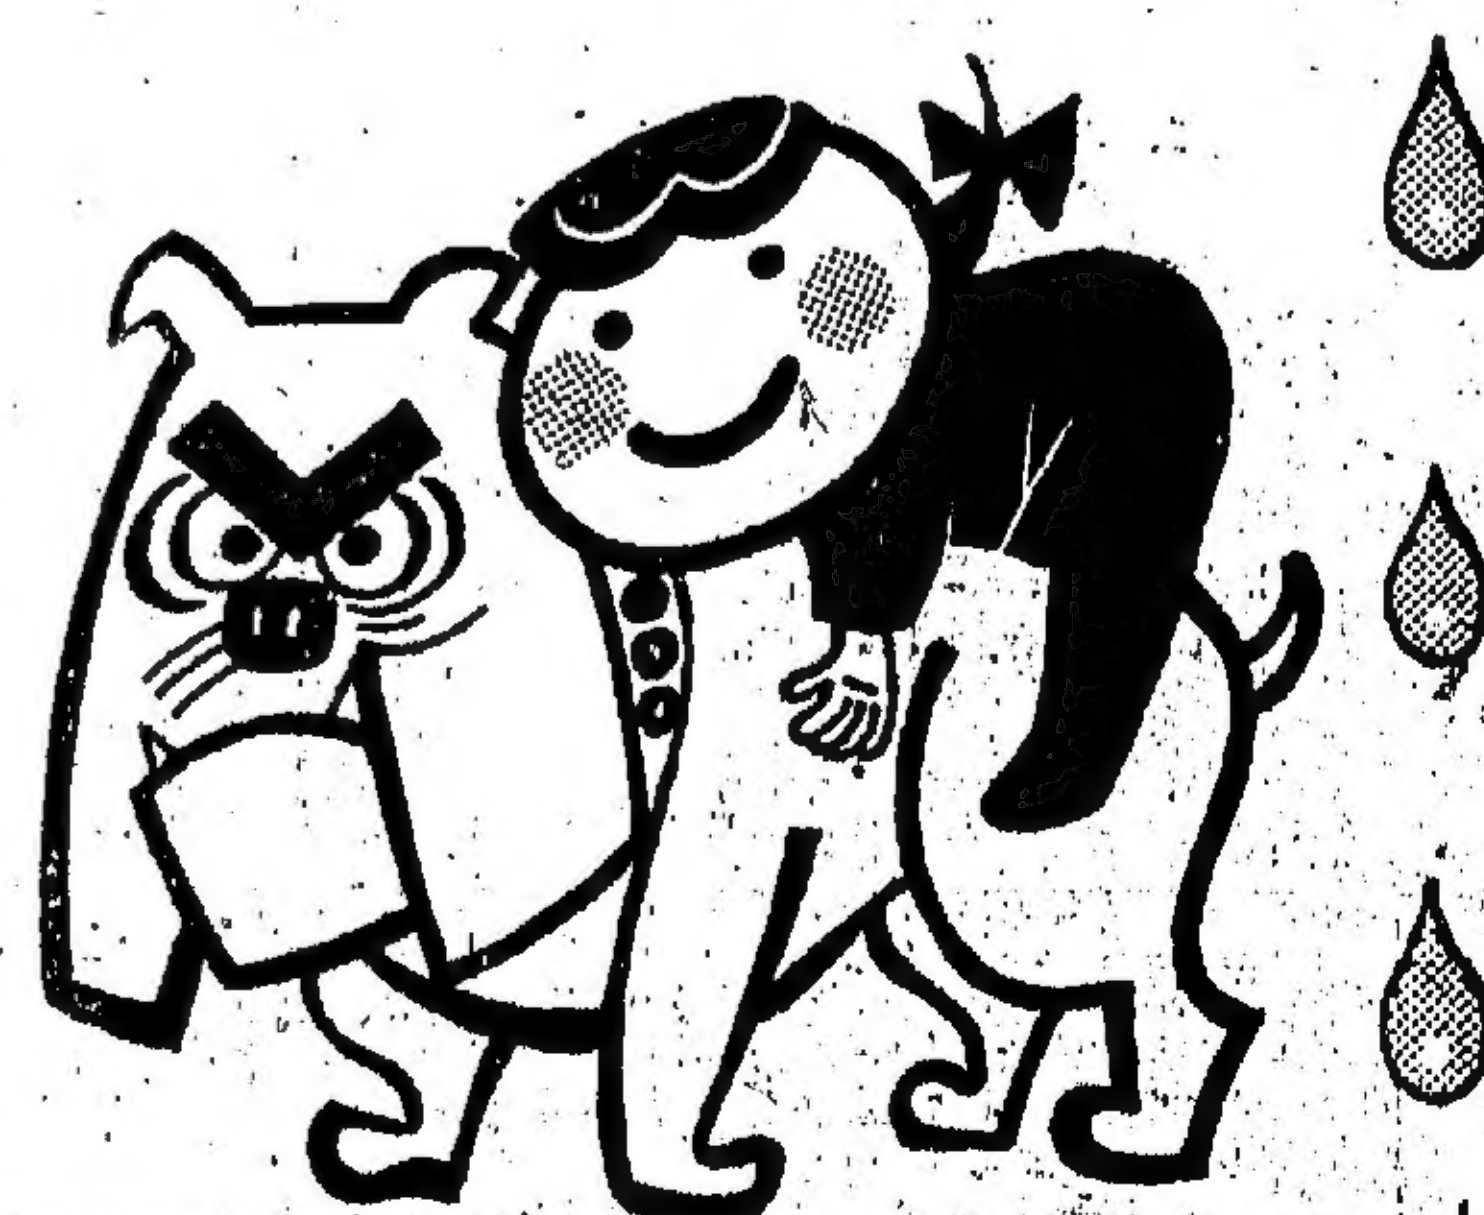

The explosion came within hours of the announcement. President Nkrumah and British Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys were to make a trial run round the route Britain's Queen Elizabeth would take when she arrived in Accra on Thursday.

The move was an obvious effort to reassure Britain the Queen would be safe.—AP.

Wedding music

Lille, Nov. 6. Background music is now available for civil wedding ceremonies at the Town Hall in suburban Lomme. The new mayor has installed a phonograph and a recording of Vivaldi's "Moderato" concerto for orchestra and strings. He also presents the newly weds with a bouquet of flowers and a household encyclopedia.—UPI.

ABDEC DROPS for the protection of children

... the vitamins they need with the taste they love

PANKE-DAVIS

Indian leader stresses need for peace Nehru meets Kennedy

UNUSUALLY WARM WELCOME IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 6. Indian Prime Minister Mr. Nehru said on arrival in Washington today that he had come to talk about the world's greatest need—the need for peace. The Indian leader came here by plane with President Kennedy from Newport, Rhode Island, where the two had lunch.

In an arrival statement the 71-year-old Mr. Nehru turned to the 44-year-old American President and said:

"Mr. President, I wish you all success in your efforts to maintain peace and freedom."

Mr. Nehru had expressed a similar hope for peace to Soviet dependents have spread your fame and reputation beyond your borders."

He said that although India and America are separated by half the globe, nevertheless there is a great well of affection and regard in this country for him and the Indian people.

"I welcome you as a friend, a great world leader, and as one who has stood for the basic aspiration of the United States stands for

Many issues

They had a long list of issues to talk about—problems of nuclear testing, Berlin, the situation in Communist-threatened Southeast Asia and India-Pakistan relations.

Mr. Kennedy said that he hoped during Mr. Nehru's ten-day visit he would find "a renewed sense of strength, vigour and purpose in the United States."

Mr. Nehru and Mr. Kennedy conferred for about three-and-a-half hours, together in their initial meeting at Newport, then flew in the presidential jet to Andrews Air Force base.

The U.S. First Lady, wearing a striking red wool coat, and Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter, and a powerful political figure in her own right, joined the President and Prime Minister on the one-hour flight to Washington.

The foursome boarded an army helicopter for the short trip to the White House after a thirty-minute red carpet welcoming ceremony with full military honours.

When the helicopter landed on the soft green lawn of the White House—and hundreds of starlings in the trees on the grounds hastily took off in flight—Mr. Nehru stepped off first, followed by his sister, the President and Mrs. Kennedy.

The chief executive escorted the sister over to the driveway. Mr. Nehru took Mrs. Kennedy by the arm and the two followed along.

Vice President Johnson's limousine was waiting with the American and Indian flags fluttering from the front bumper.—AP.

MR. NEHRU

Premier Khrushchev in Moscow last September. The Prime Minister, looking tired and speaking in a low voice that was sometimes almost inaudible, laid heavy stress on India's long struggle to achieve independence from Britain, "we did so in friendship with the British people largely as a result of our peaceful approach and our deliberate attempt not to pile up bitterness."

Fame

President Kennedy gave Mr. Nehru an unusually warm welcome.

He said the fame of some national leaders—including some American leaders—had spread across national boundaries through the world.

In that category he placed Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Turning to Mr. Nehru, Kennedy said, "and you, Mr. Prime Minister, and your illustrious leader Mahatma Gandhi in your fight for Indian

AFTERMATH OF HURRICANE HORROR

A wet and bedraggled dog snarls over the rubble that was once his home in Belize, capital of British Honduras, on November 1. Wreckage is the aftermath of Hurricane Hattie which pounded Belize on October 31.—AP Photo.

RIOTS AND DEATH ON THE STREETS

ECUADOR'S CABINET RESIGNS

Quito, Nov. 6. Ecuador's cabinet resigned today amid new anti-government rioting in Guayaquil, in which four students were killed and many others injured.

Army tanks rolled into the streets as riot police—who had earlier fired on street mobs seeking to attack government buildings—cleared Guayaquil's streets.

The mass resignation was announced by Interior Minister Jaime Acosta Velasco, who said it was intended to pave the way for political peace.

MOVEMENT

A "revolutionary movement" is underway in Ecuador, Mr. Acosta said. He accused Vice President Carlos Arosemena of exercising dictatorial powers in the Congress "under Communist incitement."

Mr. Acosta called on the people to "reject dictatorship" and back the government "in this hour of constitutional crisis." He said the seven resigning Cabinet members "totally and loyally" support the regime of President Jose M. Velasco Ibarra.—UPI.

Macmillan opens Tagore Centenary display in London

London, Nov. 6. Prime Minister Harold Macmillan took time out today from his busy schedule to pay special tribute to the late Indian writer, philosopher, painter and national hero Rabindranath Tagore.

Mr. Macmillan officially opened the Tagore Centenary Exhibition here before a crowd of more than 300 at India House, early this evening.

The ceremony was the last official function in honour of Tagore held here since Tagore's 100th birthday last May.—UPI.

BIG RISE IN RED GUERRILLA FORCE IN SOUTH VIETNAM

Washington, Nov. 6. The State Department said today that the number of Communist guerrillas operating in South Vietnam had doubled since January and was now estimated at nearly 20,000.

Born at same minute as Viscount Linley

Rome, Nov. 6. An Italian woman, Signora Paola Rizzo, gave birth to a boy in the same minute on Friday as Princess Margaret, and intends to give him the Christian name chosen for Viscount Linley, Italian news agencies report from Syracuse, Sicily.

The agencies added that Signora Rizzo and her husband, Salvatore, sent a cable to Clarence House suggesting a "spiritual twinning" between the two babies, and saying that they planned to travel to London to pay their respects to the Princess.—China Mail Special.

East German woman asks for asylum

Paris, Nov. 6. A 36-year-old East German literature teacher, Fraulein Eva Schultz, today asked for political asylum in France, police at Orly Airport reported.

They said she arrived here late last night from Tunis with a nine-member East German cultural delegation.

Before being escorted by police to the West German Embassy, where she had asked to be taken, she told reporters that in Tunis she had openly criticised the East German Communist Party and regime.

She said the head of the delegation wrote down her remarks and made her sign the document.

Fraulein Schultz said her family, including her father, were still living in East Germany.

She planned to look for a job in a West German university.—Reuters.

Soviet activity

The spokesman said that a major logistics base for the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels was known to exist near the town of Tchepone, near the border of South Vietnam just below the 17th Parallel.

"We have had reports of Soviet air activity, supply and logistics build up at this base," the spokesman said.

He added: "It is known that Viet Cong are going through that area to Vietnam and are being supplied from there."

The spokesman said that the South Vietnamese Government had sent a letter to the International Control Commission on October 24 with "documented evidence" about the base.

He added that the force "of armed and trained Viet Cong in South Vietnam is now estimated to be near 20,000, or double what it was earlier this year."

—Reuters.

LENIN READS TO EMPTY CHAIR

Moscow, Nov. 6. Stalin has been painted right out of the picture in Moscow's big Metropole Hotel.

For years a picture hung in the lobby showed Lenin seated at a table reading from his works to Stalin.

When Stalin was denounced at the recent Soviet Communist Party Congress, an artist was called in to "touch it up."

Now Lenin sits reading to a big empty chair draped with a white dust cover.—AP.

African horse sickness

Thapsak, Nov. 6. An epidemic of African horse sickness has killed 800 horses so far in the Ethiopian division of India, an official source said today.—Reuters.

News in brief CENTO BEGINS 2-DAY SESSION

Washington, Nov. 6. Military chiefs of the United States, United Kingdom, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey began today a two-day closed session of the Central Treaty Organisation (Cento) Military Committee.

Dr. Adenauer

Backs Adenauer

Bonn, Nov. 6. Former West German foreign minister Mr. Heinrich von Brentano this evening pledged support for 85-year-old Dr. Adenauer, whose re-investiture as federal Chancellor is scheduled for tomorrow.

Mr. von Brentano, replaced as foreign minister by Mr. Gerhard Schröder, told a group of deputies and reporters: "I shall vote on Tuesday for Dr. Adenauer, and I shall support the Chancellor's policy within the Christian-Democrat group."—AFP.

It is the Committee's first meeting in Washington. The United States is not a full member of the Cento, Middle East pact, but a U.S. general heads Cento's permanent military deputies group and another U.S. general heads its combined military planning staff. Both of these groups function in Ankara, headquarters for the pact.

One issue

One issue before the committee is the Middle Eastern member's long standing proposal that a supreme commander and a fulfilled Cento military headquarters be established.

The committee promised to issue a communiqué tomorrow afternoon at the close of the meeting.

It is being held in the State Department's international conference room with Gen. Layman L. Lemnitzer, Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, as host.

The delegations are headed by Britain's Admiral of the Fleet the Earl Mountbatten, chief of the Defence Staff; Iran's Gen. Abdulhosseyn Hedjazli, Chief of the Supreme Commander's Staff; Gen. Mohammed Musa, commander in chief of the Pakistan Army; Gen. Geyvdad Sany, chief of the Turkish General Staff, and Lemnitzer.—UPI.

CAPTURED

Paris, Nov. 6. Three of the 39 Algerian prisoners who escaped from the Mauzac penitentiary near Bergerac, southwest France, early today were tonight captured by police in a wood about nine miles from the prison.

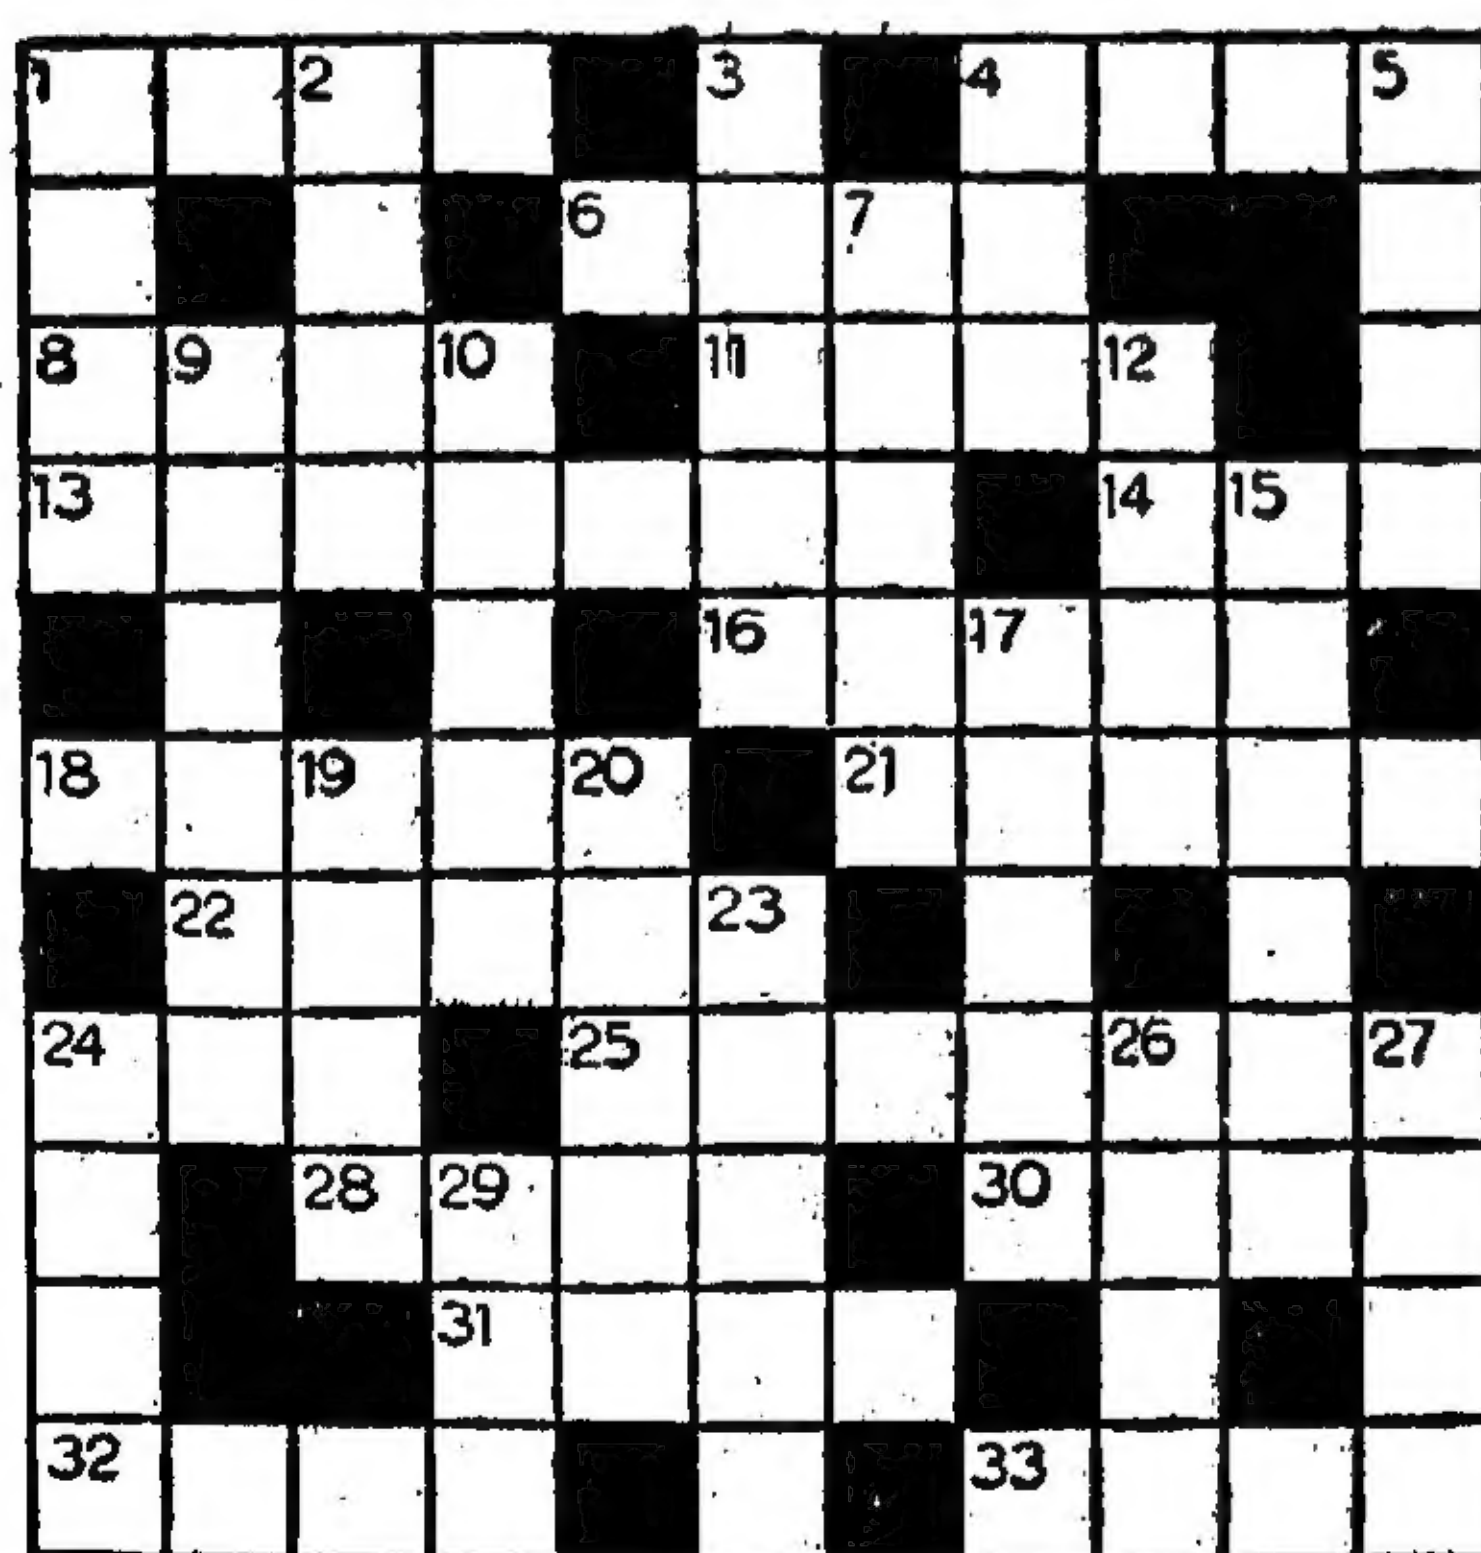

Police said the three men offered no resistance.—Reuters.

DANCER DIES

Tokyo, Nov. 7. Mr. Michio Ito, internationally known dancer, died today of cerebral hemorrhage at his home here. He was 68.

He spent 33 years abroad, living in France, Britain, Germany and the United States. He was in charge for staging the opening and closing ceremonies of the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.—AP.

A British Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- 1 And tuckers?
- 2 Fluent.
- 3 Gull.
- 4 First, metal
- 5 Thrills.
- 6 Gives back—the tickets.
- 7 Great deal.
- 8 Undress.
- 9 Brightly coloured.
- 10 Sing.
- 11 Cut up by a gambler?
- 12 River.
- 13 Tardy.
- 14 Draw.
- 15 Maiden name!
- 16 Persia.
- 17 Walk in a flabby way?
- 18 Jump over a rope.

DOWN

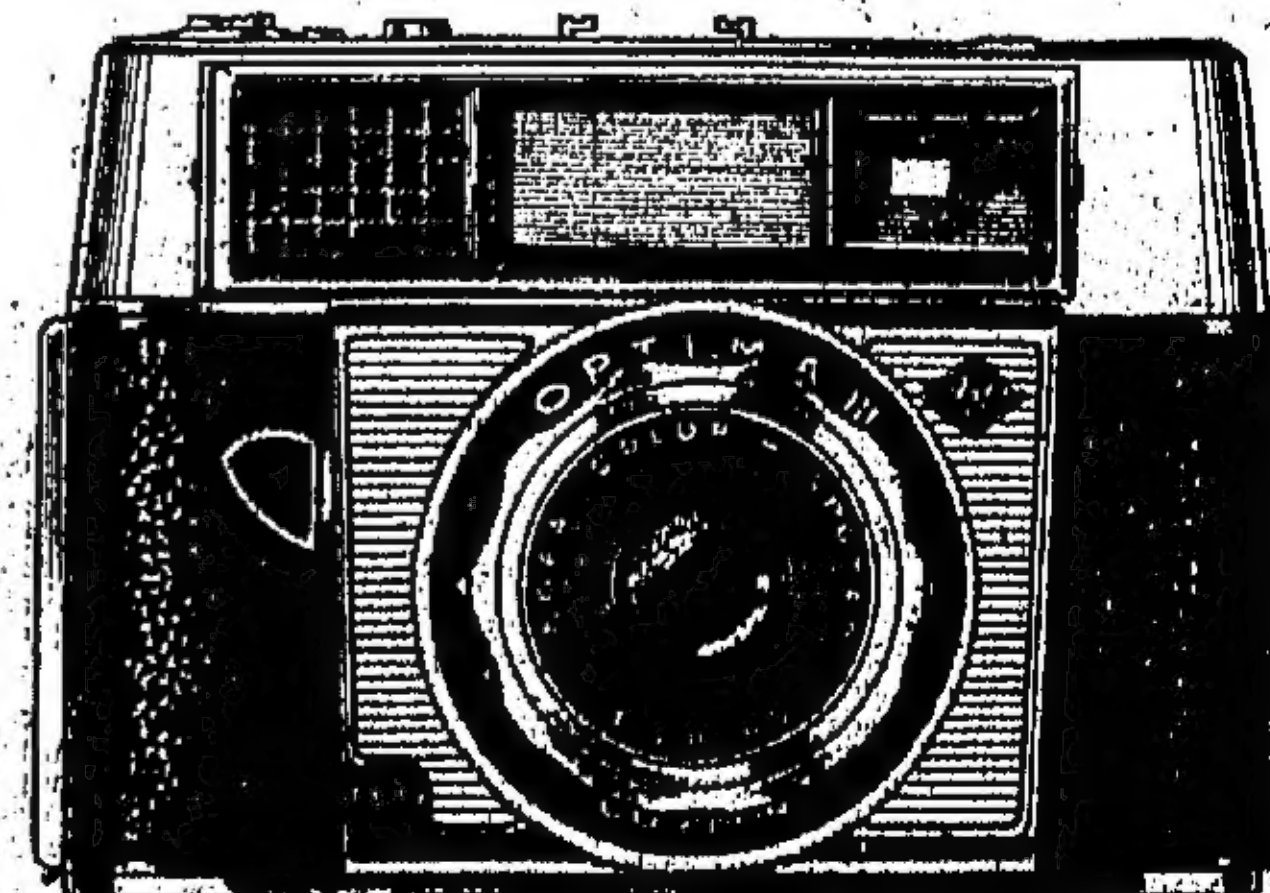

- 1 Beast of burden?
- 2 Vessel.
- 3 Revolutionary acts?
- 4 It's precious
- 5 Kick part of the car!
- 6 Unhealthy-looking pie?
- 7 Resolve.
- 8 It hath charms.
- 9 Skidded.
- 10 Bat in the kitchen?
- 11 Foreigner.
- 12 Competed.
- 13 Exclude.
- 14 Artist.
- 15 Do business in Kent!
- 16 Accepted.
- 17 Not aired.
- 18 Pull apart.

YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD—Across: 1 Liked, 4 Sear, 7 Real, 8 Kinono, 9 Punt, 10 West, 12 Flew, 14 Coy, 16 Lit, 17 Also, 20 Arms, 23 Como, 24 Vanish, 25 Pure, 26 Tent, 27 Satter. Down: 1 Liked, 2 Come, 3 Drove, 4 Saps, 6 Clutch, 8 Ratty, 11 Ewes, 13 Lean, 15 Stamps, 16 Lick, 19 Loves, 19 Other, 21 Rout, 22 Mint.

tops up-to-date automatic

It's easier than operating a washing machine when you photograph with one of the great Agfa Optima cameras. Tricky calculations complicating photography to many amateurs are a thing of the past. Automatic is the word that counts. The inexpensive Optima I and the high-class Optima III are designed to bring new pleasures to photo fans. Watch for the green sign in the viewfinder, push the "Magic Key", and call another outstanding shot your own. See your photo shop.

AGFA OPTIMA

Sole Agents: JEBSEN & CO.

For automatic photography it's Agfa

KING'S · BROADWAY

TEL 25313

TEL 52525

★ NOW SHOWING ★

AT 2.30, 5.15, 7.20
& 9.30 P.M.AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30
& 9.30 P.M.

COMING!

CARY COOPER-KERR

Only the men who wrote PSYCHO could just get away with this!THE NAKED EDGE

Tel. 706241

Tel. 80-5700

STATE

QUEEN'S

ROYAL

Tel. 38001

3 Theatres Showing Simultaneously

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

HOOVER GALA

NOW PLAYING

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 and 9.30 P.M.

CHARMAINE BEAUTY SALON

Why Pay Fancy Prices

Try Mrs. Wong's experienced hair stylists & beauticians4, Bristol Avenue, Kowloon. Tel. 68235
(Opp. Astor & Carnarvon Hotels.)

CAPITOL

— TO-DAY —

Blueprint
of MurderAdded Attraction
"HOKKAIDO"A Travelogue in English
SPECIAL SHOW TO-MORROW
at 12.30 p.m.
"THEY CAME TO CORDURA"

SKY

275 CHATHAM RD

— SHOWING TO-DAY —

At 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.
The Great Love Story in 1961!
The Beautiful Scenes of the Pearl of Orient

"A Night in Hong Kong"

starring
Miss Yu Ming & Akira Takafada
in Eastman Colour
A Toho-Cathay Co-Production

H.K.S.P.C.

Needs financial support for the welfare of poor childrenPlease address communications:
Secretary, Hongkong
Society for the Protection of Children, Southern Playground, Wanchai.
Please send us your unwanted toys
Collection centre at Rediffusion.

MILITARY FORCES ALERTED

Argentine prepares for general strike

Buenos Aires, Nov. 6.

Men of Argentina's army, navy and air force were confined to barracks today ready for emergency action on the eve of a three-day general strike due to begin at one minute past midnight.

Tokyo to sell
wine flavoured
chewing gumTokyo, Nov. 7.
Wine flavoured chewing gum will go on sale at Tokyo's tobacco counters some time late this month, it was reported yesterday.

A leading Japanese gum manufacturer announced an agreement with one of the country's largest liquor firms, which will supply spirits and technical advice for the project.

Three flavours will be offered: grape, wine, gin and cherry brandy.—UPL

Lisbon police break up
youth march

Lisbon, Nov. 6.

More than 100 youths, including students, were dispersed by riot police in the heart of Lisbon tonight after they marched through the town and demonstrated before both liberal and pro-Government newspapers shouting "down with Fascism."

The demonstration was the second in the present campaign for next Sunday's national elections—and the second of their kind against the 32-year-old regime of Prime Minister Salazar.

It followed the pattern of a similar parade on November 2 when students and other youths applauded the leftist newspaper "República" and "chanted" "Fascists" and "Taxistas" (those who eat the cheese) in front of two pro-Salazar newspapers.

Anthem

No arrests were reported as more than 30 policemen moved in to break up the demonstration after permitting the group to march twice past the newspapers.

Curious passers-by swelled the crowd of demonstrators as the group first marched up a busy business thoroughfare, singing the national anthem and shouting "down with Fascism."

Veteran observers here could recall no previous times in which such demonstrations against the Government were permitted. Political groups in opposition to the Salazar Government for Sunday's National Assembly election have called a news conference for tomorrow.

"Manifesto"

Most political observers believed the conference was to announce an opposition boycott of the coming elections as a protest to the President's refusal to "scrap the Salazar regime."

The call for the news conference followed announcement of an opposition "manifesto" which appealed to the President to oust the Salazar Government "because it no longer represents the wishes of the people."—AP.

3 in U.K. named
to attend P's
Rizal CongressLondon, Nov. 6.
The Philippine Embassy here today announced the names of three British representatives who will attend the Rizal International Congress in Manila from December 4 to 8.

The three are: Charles R. Boxer, a lecturer on Southeast Asia at the University of London; R. A. Skelton, keeper of the map room at the British Museum; and Dr Salvador de Madariaga, a former Spanish Cabinet Minister, writer, historian and authority on Rizal.—UPL

Prepare for his tour
POLICE NERVOUS
FOR SAFETY
OF DE GAULLE

Paris, Nov. 6.

President Charles de Gaulle takes off tomorrow on a four-day tour of Corsica and Southern France which has some police officers nervous for his safety.

Ships

But civil servants have said they will strike and no newspapers will be printed during the three days—the fourth and longest work stoppage declared in a year by the General Confederation of Labour, which is dominated by Communists and supporters of ousted Dictator Juan Peron.

Many ships scheduled to sail within the next three days were today rushing to complete loading in order to sail before midnight.

Meanwhile Government efforts to pressgang railwaymen by rounding them up and taking them to work have had little effect so far.

Arrests

Police patrols called at railwaymen's homes telling them of the possible penalties—fines and dismissals, some reported for work, enabling a few trains to run.

The Government's pressgang decree is also being applied to public and private road transport workers throughout the country.

Some 500 people have been arrested, mostly railwaymen and about 50 alleged Communists, but no prominent union leaders.

President Arturo Frondizi, last night accused union leaders of "seeking to plunge the country into chaos and disorder for political reasons," and said the Government would go ahead with its railway reorganisation plans under which 70,000 railwaymen will become redundant.—Reuter.

MANY FLEE FROM
'WORST FIRE'
TO HIT HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Nov. 7.

The worst fire in Hollywood history cut through the heart of the movie colony today, destroying homes of notables and causing scores of others to flee for safety.

The flames leaped through the canyons and over the hilltops of the rich property between Beverly Hills and the San Fernando Valley. And many a star found himself involved in a real-life drama of evacuating families and possessions.

Marlon Brando's Japanese-style house is atop Mulholland Drive, overlooking both sides of the mountains. "The fire isn't in the immediate area, but it could be coming this way," he said.

"I've got to go up on the roof and water it down." Reports spread that the mansion of Red Skelton had been destroyed. His studio reported that the family had left the house, but it was believed to be still standing. Two truckloads of studio workers had been dispatched to the house in an attempt to pump water from the swimming pool to save the house.

Speech

The homes of Joe E. Brown and Walter Wanger were among those reported destroyed. Solly Blinn, casting director at Warner Brothers, lost his $100,000 house in Bel-Air. So did his son-in-law, writer Vincent Fortre.

Bob Waterfield, coach of the Los Angeles football team, the Rams, was delivering a speech at the Football Writers luncheon when he got the call to go home.

Three members of the "Boys Night Out" company—Kim Novak, James Garner and director Mike Gordon—were dismissed to rush to their homes in the fire area. Garner was atop his Thurston Circle home spraying it with a garden hose.

The house next door to Laurence O'Hara's Stone Canyon home went up in flames, but Steve Cochran's Levico Way home managed to escape, thanks to his efforts with the hose. The area around it was devastated. Mervyn Leroy was one of the many art collectors who rushed home to remove valuable paintings.

The list of film personalities in the fire area includes: Alfred Hitchcock, Greer Garson, Cary Grant, Ginger Rogers, Meredith Willson, Jascha Heifetz, Peggy Lee, Maxene and Laverne Andrews, Robert Stack, Bobby Darin and Sandra Dee.—AP.

Israel denies arms charge
in U.N. debate

United Nations, Nov. 6.

Czechoslovakia today accused West Germany of sending 10,000 Israeli-made machine guns to Portuguese troops in Angola.

The charge immediately was denied by Israel.

The accusation was made by Zdenek Cernak during a debate in the U.N. Trusteeship Committee dealing with Portugal's refusal to transmit information about its overseas territories to the U.N.

He lashed out at Nato, the United States, United Kingdom and then said, "The West German Government supplied to Portugal 10,000 Israeli-made machine guns." He read a dispatch from the New York Times which reported the alleged dealing.

Hanan Aynor of Israel immediately denied the New York Times story as well as the charge.

Denial

M. Alwan of Iraq entered the debate and "contended Czechoslovakia was correct as 'we never have had an official denial by the Israeli Government.'"

Aynor answered: "No Israeli arms have ever been sold to Portugal, no arms have reached Portugal from a third government, as a result of a Government decision of May 23, no Israeli arms will be sold to any country involved in colonial wars."

The Committee then adjourned for the morning.

Meanwhile, India plans to submit a formal resolution to the committee tomorrow calling for the creation of a special U.N. committee to gather information on conditions in Portugal's overseas territories.

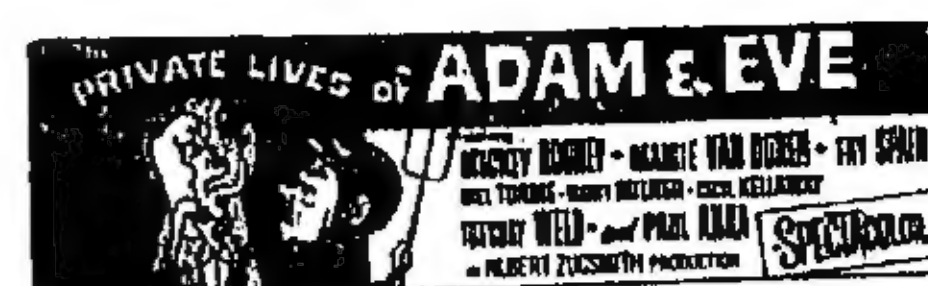

This was reported to a newsman today by J. N. Sahni of India who in an earlier speech before the committee had outlined plans for such a group.

"Moderate"

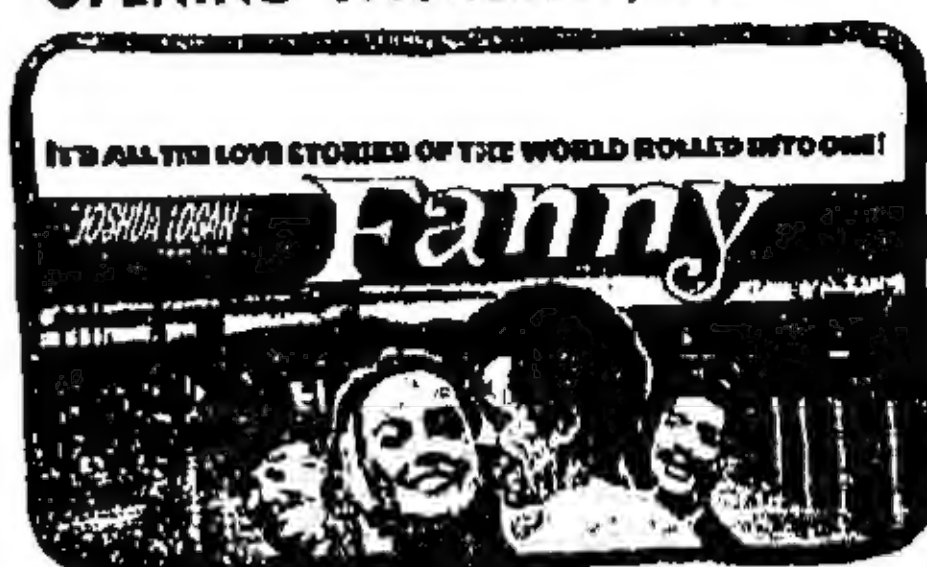

Sahni described the proposed resolution as a moderate one. He said it will cite Portugal's non-compliance with the U.N. resolutions and call on the Secretariat to:

Gather on its own information about the Portuguese territories; Appoint a seven-man committee to study the Secretariat's information and gather more of its own, including information submitted by petitioners in the territories themselves if necessary.—AP.

LEE-PRINCESS

TO-DAY ONLY! NOW SHOWING
At 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.LEE: To-morrow—CHARITY OPERA SHOW
(No screen performance)

OPENING THURSDAY, NOV. 9th

Gala Premiere To-morrow at 9.30 p.m.
"FANNY" — at PRINCESS only.

ROXY & MAJESTIC

SHOWING TO-DAY

Owing to length of picture please note change of times:
AT 2.20, 4.50, 7.20 & 9.45 P.M.It probes the stranger... the pick-up the savage realities of life and love!

ORIENTAL RITZ

TEL 764907 TEL 50100

SHOWING TO-DAY

At 2.30—5.30—7.30

& 9.30 P.M.

His name is

TECHNICOLOR®
from WARNER BROS.

— NEXT CHANGE —

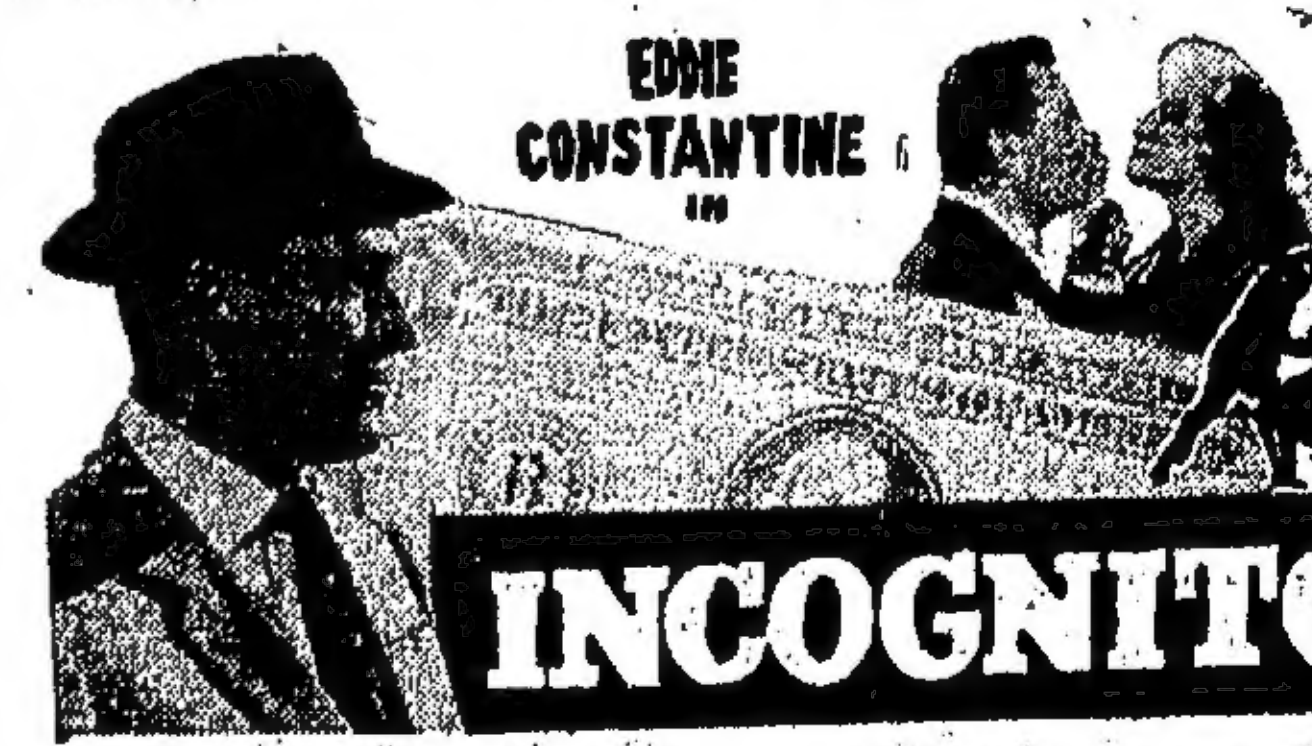

"TRAPEZE"

Astor Theatre

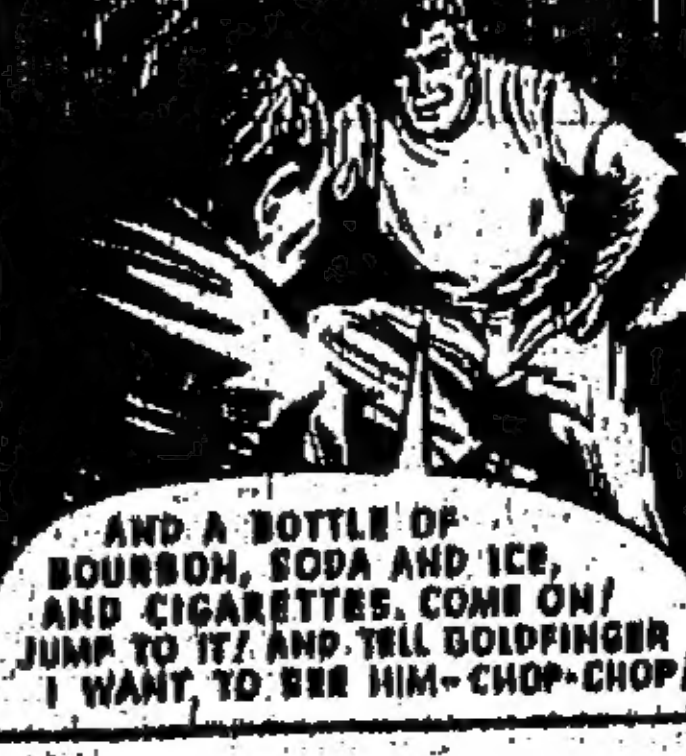

★ GRAND OPENING TO-DAY ★

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Beware, this man is dangerous, and coming incognito!

with Cady Andre • Tilda Thamar
A French Thriller with English Sub-titles

James Bond

BY JIM FLEMING
DRAWING BY JOHN MCELISKYBOND AWAKES TO THE CLOSENESS
OF A SMALL GREY ROOM. HE REMEMBERED HE WAS NOW IN AMERICA.ODDJOB,
I WANT A LOT
OF FOOD.
QUICKLY.AND A BOTTLE OF
BONDAGE FOOD AND ICE,
AND CIGARETTES. COME ON!
JUMP TO IT! AND TELL GOLDFINGER
I WANT TO SEE HIM—CHOP-CHOP!SO GOLDFINGER'S
DECIDED AGAINST KILLING
ME FOR SOME REASON. WELL—I
STAY ALIVE ON MY TERMS

Fly

Canadian Pacific
'White Empress' Jets

...The only way to fly

WOMANSENSE

LADY LUCK

YOUR CHINA MAIL HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): A friend's unexpected arrival from abroad is likely to occupy a good deal of your time in the near future.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): A friend in trouble whom you have failed to help is liable to feel that you are not interested in his plight, and you may lose his friendship.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): During the weekend you may form a very pleasant and lasting attachment to a person of the opposite sex.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Thanks to your wit and constant good humour, you are considerably in demand as a guest.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): A great deal of very pleasant activity will keep you busy all the weekend.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Your great vitality enables you to do all the things you have set out to do and do them well.

LEO (July 22-August 21): Readiness to see the other fellow's point of view makes you a very desirable person to turn to when your friends are in doubt about some future action.

VIRGO (August 22-September 22): You are anxious to form a friendly alliance with a person who is at times rather touchy and moody, which you may regret later.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You are to be congratulated on your ability to know when the time has come to withdraw gracefully from a minor dispute.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Although the strenuous sport you so much enjoy is generally beneficial, there is such a thing as overdoing it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): A compromise in an argument with a rather stubborn person will be the best way for you to disengage yourself.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): Your arrival at a critical moment will be welcomed by all concerned, as it will help to save a very unpleasant situation.

LUCKY ENCOUNTER: If this is your birthday, a meeting with a woman named JUNE may have some special significance.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' MAGAZINE

Are Ponies Happy?

—Knarf Says Yes, But Hanid Disagrees With Him—

By MAX TRELL

ON one side of the park, there was a sort of corral where the riding Ponies were kept and on pleasant afternoons, especially in the summertime, the Children came and climbed on the backs of the Ponies and made themselves comfortable in the saddles and then trotted up and down the riding path.

It was great fun for everyone, especially for the Ponies or, at any rate, that's what Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-About Name, told his sister Hanid.

Stood by fence
Knarf and Hanid had been standing by the rail that fenced the corral, watching the Ponies and their young riders.

"But the Ponies can't be enjoying themselves," Hanid argued. "Just look at that fat Boy sitting on that thin little Pony. Look at the way he's bouncing up and down. I'm sure the Pony isn't having any fun."

Knarf saw exactly what Hanid meant. The Boy was really quite fat and he bounced up and down. Knarf was about to agree that Hanid was right this time about the Pony not having much fun with him on her back, when at that moment the Pony went trotting by.

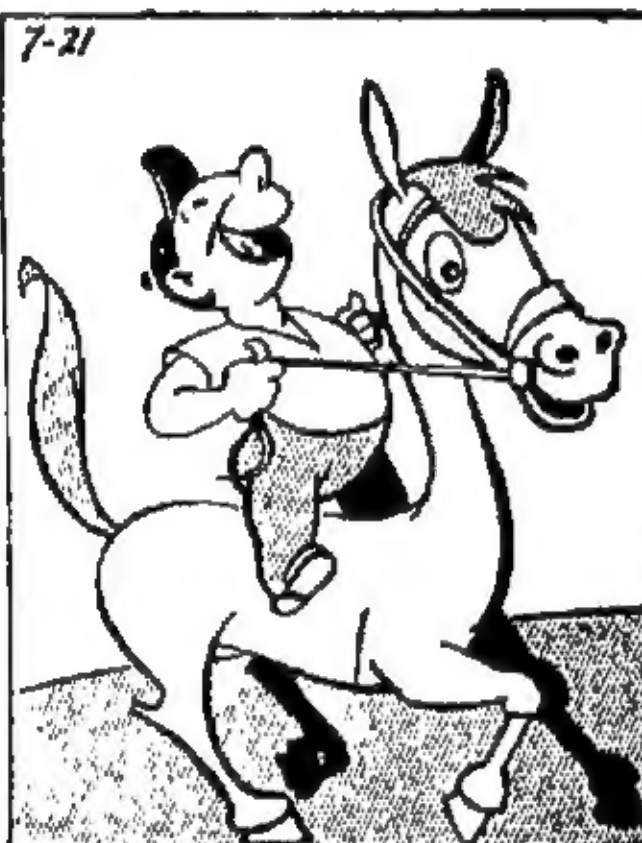

Heard pony
Knarf distinctly heard the Pony say as she trotted along: "Happ-i-y, happ-i-y, happ-i-y..."

"There! Did you hear that?" Knarf exclaimed to his sister in great excitement. "I didn't hear anything," said Hanid in surprise, "except the sound of that Pony's hoofs as she ran past us."

"She said she was happy," insisted Knarf. "I heard her!" But Hanid laughed and said that that Pony didn't talk, and all that, Knarf heard was the sound of her hoofs.

Not happy
A few moments later, Hanid saw something else that made her feel sure that the Ponies weren't enjoying themselves nearly half as much as the Children who were riding on their backs.

"Just look at that poor fellow," she said, pointing to a Pony who was being led slowly down the bridge path while two very small Girls were riding on his back. A young Man led the Pony by a rope while an old Man walked beside the two small Girls with his arm around them to make sure they didn't fall off.

A fat Boy was jumping up and down on the Pony's back.

saying it was wonderful fun to be giving the two little Girls a ride on his back!" And so it went for the rest of the afternoon with Knarf hearing the Ponies saying how much they were enjoying themselves, and Hanid insisting that all her brother was hearing was the sound of the Ponies' footsteps.

Knarf's right
But finally a really surprising thing happened. And it proved that Knarf was right. This is what happened:

Among the Ponies was a Burro. And look at that poor, poor poor Donkey," said Hanid as she pointed at the Burro. Knarf looked. The Burro, looking not much bigger than a large Dog, was trotting along with three little Boys and two little Girls on its back.

"Now don't stand there and tell me," said Hanid, "that he's having a good time!"

Burro Laughed
And do you know what the Burro did? It started to laugh. "Hee-haw, hee-haw, hee-haw," it went.

"Oh dear," said Hanid. She looked around. The Burro was laughing. Knarf was laughing. And so, after a moment, Hanid started laughing, too.

"Yes," she said, "everyone's having fun!"

At a shout from Bill, Rupert runs to join him. "See what I've found! I've found the little badger. It's a gorgeous shell. I can see Cap'n Binnacle coming back to the shore. I'll show it to him." He dashes away while Rupert goes to his Mummy. Bill has found a lovely shell but all I could find was this," he says. Mrs. Bear gazes thoughtfully at the weed. "When I was young we used to find seaweed with lots of little bobbles and we used to pop them," she says, "but I've never seen anything like this with such huge black bobbles. It is quite a different kind."

All rights reserved

JEAN SOWARD looks at the sought-after 'stars' of the small screen commercials

What do you think of those TV children?

SWITCH on your television set, tune in to ITV, and the chances are 10 to one that within a few minutes you will see a "commercial." It's even on that the star of this tiny film, or at least a strongly featured player, will be a child. A pretty poppet, perhaps in an unearthly white nightdress, stealing downstairs to abduct a kitten from the kitchen.

Or a near-teenager in more unearthly white, prancing along a garden wall carrying a shopping basket; a glum little boy concentrating breathily on the tube of sweets his Mum may have forgotten; a small brother and sister in paroxysms of delight over their noisy breakfast cereal.

And, as you watch them, sometimes irritated, but often admiring, for they are generally pretty, or quaint, or curious children, with quite good manners, have you ever thought of yourself: "Well, really—there's nothing to it. Why shouldn't my little Felicity model too?"

Shush, M. X. Quietly does it. Don't loud-pedal your ambitions. Though you would probably never guess it, child modelling is illegal.

But despite the fact that children under 13 are not allowed to work (in special circumstances some get permits for stage work after 12), the law seems to turn a conveniently blind eye on the multitude of contemporary cherubs whose innocent smiles, knowing winks, and beguiling pranks advertise today anything from soap and sweets to detergents, and—all the more fetching for being so unlikely—world-wide airlines and top banks.

Clamour for them

The current edition of International Model has a 37-page section—following the pictures of adult, male, and overweight models—called Children and Babies.

There are 86 photographs. This represents about a third of the kids who queue for the jobs. Because, today, like yellow for curtains and waisted chiffon, children for publicity are "in," even babes-in-arms never had it so good.

Photographers, advertising agencies, and television producers clamour for them.

Once started, the possibilities are endless. The baby who can smile, or pull a knowing face with a couple of dozen third-degree lamps shining in its face, and, from toddler stage on, learn the technicalities of professional childish spontaneity and simulate that touching wide-eyed innocence with a team of studio workers watching, can graduate from modelling to commercials, and from commercials to film and stage work.

Before you know where you are this child is probably buying Mummy and Daddy a new house, is keeping them in three square meals a day, paying its own school fees, and still putting something by for its, we hope, not too premature old age.

No arduous task
A child model used for photography earns two guineas an hour.

Taken on location, say a morning's work outside the studio, the fee can rise to between six and 12 guineas. If the resultant picture is used for a poster, an additional seven to 12 guineas is paid.

A television commercial performance nets a child up to 20 guineas—and it can then sit back and probably rake in about £100 over the year on repeats.

If this particular commercial is a success and, following its release, sales figures of the product soar, the little model may bring off an "exclusivity" contract. This means an extra £400 to prevent the child from appearing on behalf of a rival product for the next 12 months.

The exclusivity contract is thought worth while by parents who don't want to run too great a risk with the authorities, it secures a nice round sum with small fear that, through being seen everywhere, advertising everything, the child will attract too much official notice.

"For," don't forget, child under 13 used for modelling, for commercial photography, for TV advertising are outside the law. "We stop it where we can," says the London County Council lameley. "But we have to catch them in the act before we can do anything. To enforce, we do properly would need several thousand inspectors."

Should this law be changed? Turned into something more in line with modern trends, which would allow children of any age to work under certain strictly enforced conditions and oblige parents to bank at least 75 per cent of the earnings in their children's names?

Or should the present law remain and be more rigidly enforced, thus making the exploitation of children by their parents impossible?

Mrs. Mallone, director of the Corona Stage School Agency, says: "I think the regulations governing the employment of children should be strict and strictly enforced. But I should like to see a change in the present law so that we could supply the current demand. It can, and is, being done by the serious stage school agencies with complete safety to the child from the point of view of health and education. But we want to remain inside the law instead of just outside it."

For fun
Photographer John Cole thinks modelling is all right for children if they do it perhaps once, just for fun.

"But some professional child models are just automatic puppets, like cash registers ringing up money which goes straight into their parents' pockets. They seem hypnotised by the amount they can make," And photographer Peter Clark? "Child models? The majority are not like children at all," he says. "They talk about their engagements and their fees like little old people."

Television film producer Lindsay Turner is opposed to children being used. "Children are used for television commercials because clients want them."

A dozen times
Child, up to five, must not actually work more than two hours in any one day. Fives to sevens work one, and a half hours provided they also get three hours' education.

To make sure a particular toddler will, say, take a lump of sugar out of a packet, hold it up, look at it, smile wistfully, and put it in a cup of steaming liquid in six seconds, all to a bar of music, means the director has his work cut out.

The child may oblige instantly. It may not. If not, the scene may be shot eight times, nine times, a dozen times.

12.30 pm: Last take. Removal of child, by adoring Mum or more prosaic Duenna.

12.35 pm: Director noops his brow and returns to shooting adult scenes wondering which are worse—cats, children, or budgeteers—all currently popular with advertising agents.

If this particular commercial is a success and, following its release, sales figures of the product soar, the little model may bring off an "exclusivity" contract. This means an extra £400 to prevent the child from appearing on behalf of a rival product for the next 12 months.

The exclusivity contract is thought worth while by parents who don't want to run too great a risk with the authorities, it secures a nice round sum with small fear that, through being seen everywhere, advertising everything, the child will attract too much official notice.

"For," don't forget, child under 13 used for modelling, for commercial photography, for TV advertising are outside the law. "We stop it where we can," says the London County Council lameley. "But we have to catch them in the act before we can do anything. To enforce, we do properly would need several thousand inspectors."

Should this law be changed? Turned into something more in line with modern trends, which would allow children of any age to work under certain strictly enforced conditions and oblige parents to bank at least 75 per cent of the earnings in their children's names?

Or should the present law remain and be more rigidly enforced, thus making the exploitation of children by their parents impossible?

Mrs. Mallone, director of the Corona Stage School Agency, says: "I think the regulations governing the employment of children should be strict and strictly enforced. But I should like to see a change in the present law so that we could supply the current demand. It can, and is, being done by the serious stage school agencies with complete safety to the child from the point of view of health and education. But we want to remain inside the law instead of just outside it."

For fun
Photographer John Cole thinks modelling is all right for children if they do it perhaps once, just for fun.

"But some professional child models are just automatic puppets, like cash registers ringing up money which goes straight into their parents' pockets. They seem hypnotised by the amount they can make," And photographer Peter Clark? "Child models? The majority are not like children at all," he says. "They talk about their engagements and their fees like little old people."

Television film producer Lindsay Turner is opposed to children being used. "Children are used for television commercials because clients want them."

A dozen times
Child, up to five, must not actually work more than two hours in any one day. Fives to sevens work one, and a half hours provided they also get three hours' education.

To make sure a particular toddler will, say, take a lump of sugar out of a packet, hold it up, look at it, smile wistfully, and put it in a cup of steaming liquid in six seconds, all to a bar of music, means the director has his work cut out.

The child may oblige instantly. It may not. If not, the scene may be shot eight times, nine times, a dozen times.

12.30 pm: Last take. Removal of child, by adoring Mum or more prosaic Duenna.

12.35 pm: Director noops his brow and returns to shooting adult scenes wondering which are worse—cats, children, or budgeteers—all currently popular with advertising agents.

If this particular commercial is a success and, following its release, sales figures of the product soar, the little model may bring off an "exclusivity" contract. This means an extra £400 to prevent the child from appearing on behalf of a rival product for the next 12 months.

The exclusivity contract is thought worth while by parents who don't want to run too great a risk with the authorities, it secures a nice round sum with small fear that, through being seen everywhere, advertising everything, the child will attract too much official notice.

"For," don't forget, child under 13 used for modelling, for commercial photography, for TV advertising are outside the law. "We stop it where we can," says the London County Council lameley. "But we have to catch them in the act before we can do anything. To enforce, we do properly would need several thousand inspectors."

Should this law be changed? Turned into something more in

The revival of velvet

The slim silhouette for evening has brought about the revival of velvet which lends regality to simple, slim gowns. At Jean Patou in Paris, black trimmed with ermine was the favourite. At Pierre Balmain, they liked it red, side-wrapped and with a train. The picture above shows Patou's simple fitted sheath in black velvet, swathed at the top with a stole of precious white ermine.

little Xtra

BY Silhouette

For the girl who likes a high-waisted garment. Trims you at the waist, smooths away that spare tyre. In white and black. Small, medium, large and extra large.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

THE code word "Arch" is not for the sole use of declarer. The defenders should employ it also.

"A" still stands for "Analyse the lead," and "R" for "Review the bidding." "C" becomes "Count your winners," and "H" becomes "How can we beat this contract?"

East analysed his partner's lead as the normal top of a sequence. Hence, declarer was marked with the king of spades.

A review of the bidding showed that South had more than a minimum opening. He had jumped to game after North had given a single raise.

★CARD SENSE★
Q—The bidding has been:

North East South West
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♥ Pass
You, South, hold:
♠QJ52 ♥K76 ♣AK8 ♦32

What do you do?
A—You have 18 high card points and your partner has opened the bidding and jumped. Still, you have two potential losers in each black suit. A more four heart bid is suggested, but I have no quarrel with a bid of four diamonds if you feel so inclined.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three hearts your partner has jumped to four. What do you do now?
Answer Tomorrow

NORTH 15
♠35
♥J1083
♦KQ9
♣J1054
WEST
♠QJ1083		♠A972
♥84		♥62
♦8754		♦A310
♣K7		♣9883
SOUTH (D)
♠K4
♥AKQ75
♦632
♣AQ2
East and West vulnerable
South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♥	Pass
4♥	Pass	Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♠A Q

A count of his own winners produced two tricks. It was not reasonable to expect to find two winners in the West hand. When it came to "H," East noted that he had a third potential winning trick and that if he could develop that third winner he would only have to get one trick from his partner.

Do you see what East did? East overtook the queen of spades and led the jack of diamonds. Dummy's queen won the trick. Declarer drew trumps and tried the club finesse. West took his king and led a diamond, whereupon East made two diamond tricks to set the contract.

TOKYO'S £3,600,000 GAMES

Japanese preparing to make them best ever

Tokyo, Nov. 6.

Preparations for Tokyo's 1964 Olympic Games are slowly gathering momentum.

The selection of a site for the Olympic Village has been settled after months of argument and work will start soon on moving hundreds of United States Security Forces dependents from the site at Washington Heights in the centre of Tokyo to a new housing area on the outskirts of the city. The removal cost will be borne by the Japanese Government.

The schools, chapels, officers' clubs, post exchanges (shopping areas), housing units and theatres will be renovated and enlarged to accommodate 6,000 athletes expected to compete in the first Olympic Games ever held in Asia.

Reports indicate movements on "all fronts" towards the goal of making Tokyo an Olympic city and the Games the most successful yet held.

Training camps

The Japan Swimming Association announced that 180 swimmers will be selected by December as the first group of candidates for Japan's Olympic swimming team. They will attend special training camps, be fed plenty of nutritious food to develop their muscles and, next August, several will be selected to compete in the Asian Games in Jakarta and the United States Amateur Athletic Union Swimming Championships.

Similar groups of candidates will be picked, trained and fed for the Games.

The Defence Agency has opened an athletic school here which includes a special course of intensive training for athletes to compete in national and international events.

The school authorities concentrate on training students in shooting, the modern pentathlon, judo, weightlifting, and the marathon.

About 6,000 English-speaking Self-Defence Force members will assist in communications, transportation, sanitation, construction and engineering in preparation for and during the Games.

Four members of the Defence Agency attended the Games in Rome last year to study methods used by the Italian Army, Navy, and Air Force in contributing to the operation of the events.

Finance

The Government has decided to place before the National Diet (Parliament) an Athletic Promotion Bill designed to stimulate athletic development throughout the country. It provides for a "National Athletic Day" when, theoretically, everyone will cast aside work for a day of sport.

To finance the Games, Commercial Banks will shortly begin accepting special premium-attached fixed deposits from the public as a means of raising funds.

Fixed deposits will be solicited every three months until July 1964. The banks hoped to solicit 600,000 million yen (£600,000,000) in time deposits. Part of the interest accruing from the deposits and the banks' operating profits will be donated to the Olympic Fund Foundation.

In this way it is hoped 720 million yen (£720,000) can be raised for the Foundation which plans to try and raise 3,610 million yen (£3,610,000) for the Games.

Olympic stamps

The Postal Services Ministry will issue a series of Olympic stamps, as part of the revenue helping to finance the Games. Already the first stamp in the series has been issued and sold out almost immediately. Newspapers reported black market prices were being offered because of the world-wide popularity of the stamps among collectors.

For the tourists new hotels are being built and old ones renovated. The Transportation Ministry expects 550,000 tourists.

Leading hotels in Tokyo already report they have received hundreds of reservations. By October the number had exceeded 6,000. The Japan Hotel Association reported 80 per cent of the reservations came from the United States. Others came from Australia, Britain, New Zealand, the Philippines, Canada and France.

Hotel proprietors said they had difficulty meeting requests for reservations from groups of 300 to 600 tourists. Groups of about 50 persons were more easily accommodated.

For news coverage a special press committee has been formed. An estimated 2,500 to 3,000 Japanese and foreign newsmen, with news photographers, radio and television announcers, will attend.

The Japanese Government hopes that before October 1964 a new submarine cable will link Japan with the United States. This will facilitate the relaying of synchronised television broadcasts and news coverage.

The Japan Science and Technology Agency hopes to have launched a communication satellite by 1964 that will help in relaying the Games throughout Asia and to the United States.

Problems

One global television communication plan studied provided for the launching of 50 satellites to an altitude of 5,000 kilometres and five larger satellites to a height of 38,000 kilometres. These would relay television broadcasts to 26 key stations through the world on 13 different circuits.

Some problems remain: • The Metropolitan Government has an extensive scheme for building a network of roads that will ease traffic congestion in Tokyo. But people have their doubts about its success. Tokyo now has about 600,000 vehicles and by 1964 the number is expected to increase to more than 1,000,000.

• Haneda International Airport will need to be enlarged to handle the rush of Olympic tourists and athletes. Its present facilities are often inadequate. • There are not enough guides with a knowledge of languages to show tourists around Tokyo. Japan has at present 800 well-trained guides who carry government licences. Though the number of Japanese speaking English is increasing there are few who speak French, German, Spanish, Russian, Italian, Greek or any other language.—China Mail Special.

Score now is 166-162

Leicester, Nov. 6. Scobie Breasley drew further ahead of Lester Piggott in the British Jockeys' Championship when Hill Royal, whom he rode in the last race, the Bosworth Handicap at Leicester today, dead-heated with Villfair.

He had previously won on Sorbus in the Stoughton Plate. The score now is: Breasley 166, Piggott 162.—AFP.

Solomons flying to Sao Paulo and New York

London, Nov. 6.

Solomons will fly to Sao Paulo on November 13 to negotiate the details of the projected title-fight between Northern Ireland's Johnny Caldwell and Brazil's Eder Jofre for the world bantam-weight crown, it was learned here tonight.

The contract for the fight, which is to be staged in Sao Paulo next January, was signed in London last week after Caldwell took a disappointing decision from the French challenger Alphonse Halimi, and thus retained his European version of the world bantamweight title.

EARLIER DEPARTURE

As Jofre holds the National Boxing Association version of the title, their meeting next January should decide once and for all which fighter really is the undisputed champion.

Solomons had originally planned to fly to the Brazilian capital on December 7. No reason was given for bringing forward the date of his departure.

On his return trip, Solomons was to stop over in New York to open negotiations for a world championship welterweight bout between the title-holder Benny "Kid" Paret, of Cuba, and the British champion Brian Curvis — to be staged in London next summer.—AFP.

RUGBY RESULTS

London, Nov. 6. Results of Rugby Union matches played tonight were: United Hospitals 9, Edinburgh University 16. Falmouth 6, St Bart's Hospital 0. Llanelli 8, Neath 3.—Reuter.

YESTERDAY'S RUGBY

Quiberon show 14th Field Regiment how to 'slip it'

On the Army ground at Boundary-street yesterday afternoon HMAS Quiberon beat 14 Regiment RA by three goals and a try (18 points) to nil in what good, keen, robust—but not outstanding—players would call a 'nice game'.

Although there was nothing given away in the tight by the forwards of either side each was quick to applaud the other for the occasional glimpses of quality that the match produced. For it was definitely a forward's game; the backs did see a little of the ball but for the most part moved too clumsily to look at all dangerous.

What did stand out was the good handling and tactical kicking of the Australian forwards, who were masters at what is happily called 'slipping it.' They were fairly speedy too, despite appearing the oldest eight I have seen in the Colony this year.

Quiberon were undoubtedly helped by some shoddy tackling by the gunners but they did also show themselves superior in all departments of the game; it was no surprise to hear afterwards that they had only just succumbed to the Warwicks in an earlier encounter 6-8.

On both sides the full-backs took the eye. The tall Roquet playing for 14th Regiment fielded and kicked very well, often under considerable pressure. But he did knock-on more than once due really to faulty positioning, which was his weakness.

The Quiberon full-back, Johnson, skipped his team — and well did he do it; he knew his side's strength and played to it and scored that way. Brought up as an Aussie Rules player (to quote himself), he had a lovely pair of hands and a very accurate up-and-under. The Regiment came close to scoring more than once through penalties, of which there were a fair number due to what was kindly called by one player 'differences of interpretation', and they might perchance have followed up an unsuccessful kick at a penalty goal and scored had not an underknowledgeable touch-judge decided to help his full-back in touching down (but this was a mighty remote possibility).

By LANCASTRIAN

The tries

The gunners used Holden and Roquet to take the kicks and both seemed to know what to do; they might be more successful if they developed that concentration that comes from near-endless practice.

The first naval try came after a set scrum about five yards from the posts. Ramsey picked up a loose ball and using his weight and physique to its maximum dived over with gunners to the right of him and Sullivan converted.

There was another try by Ramsey a few minutes later to bring the half-time lead to 8-0. After the interval, with the wind against them HMAS Quiberon scored two more goals, through tries by Richards, one converted by Johnson and the other by himself.

These three tries followed almost identical patterns and showed off the greatest strength of the team, as I mentioned earlier. Penalties were awarded in very kickable positions and I am sure Johnson would have kicked three out of three had he tried. However, he declined this immediate invitation to score points and kicked three lovely Garryowens which his powerful forwards chased in most warlike pursuit. Three times they found the defence napping and three tries were scored.

It was a nice game, and the whole orange tossed to each player to peel for himself at half-time seemed nice too. I hope some more is seen of the HMS Quiberon XV while the Fleet is in port.

The New Zealanders, who were set to make 248 in 210 minutes to win, lost three wickets for 12 runs.

Then McGregor and Reid stopped the rout with some stubborn resistance which put

FA CUP SECOND ROUND DRAW

Giant-killers Margate, Gateshead rewarded with home matches

London, Nov. 6.

Margate and Gateshead, two of the non-League clubs who scored giant-killing wins in Saturday's first round, earned their reward today with home ties when the draw was made here for the second round of the English Football Association Cup competition.

Margate, who knocked out the Third Division leaders, Bournemouth, 3-0, were drawn to meet Third Division Notts County, and Gateshead, who beat Tranmere Rovers 3-2, will play Fourth Division Workington.

Nine replays

Though nine replays from Saturday's ties have yet to be played, it seems extremely unlikely that any non-League club will be certain of a place in the third round on January 6, when the First and Second Division teams enter the competition.

None of the non-League clubs already through were drawn to meet each other in today's draw — again made in a North-South regional basis.

But one such tie will emerge if Southern Leaguers Barry Town defeat Queen's Park Rangers in their replay tonight. The winners meet the winners of the replay between Wycombe Wanderers, the amateur team, and Southern League club Ashford, who replay on Wednesday.

The second round matches will be played on Saturday, November 25.

The draw

The draw is: Crewe vs Port Vale, Chester vs Morecambe, Southport vs Mansfield, Rochdale vs Wrexham, Hull vs Bradford City, Gateshead vs Warrington, Chesterfield vs Oldham, West Auckland or Barnley vs Carlisle, Hartlepool vs Accrington, Weymouth vs Reading or Newport, Torquay vs Peterborough or Colchester, Coventry vs King's Lynn, Margate vs Notts County, Shrewsbury vs Brierley Hill, Bristol City or Hereford vs Exeter or Dartford, Northampton vs Swindon or Kettering, Bridgwater or Weston-Super-Mare vs Crystal Palace, Romford vs Watford, Aldershot vs Brentford, Wycombe or Ashford vs Barry or Queen's Park Rangers—China Mail Special.

Hearts lose Fairs Cup match

Edinburgh, Nov. 6. Internationals, of Milan, beat Hearts of Midlothian, of Scotland, 1-0 here tonight in the first leg of the second round of the Inter-Cities Fairs Soccer Cup. Internationals led 1-0 at half-time.—Reuter.

New Zealand touring cricketers force a creditable draw

Johannesburg, Nov. 6. A fighting century by Noel McGregor and a hard hit 56 by skipper John Reid earned the New Zealand cricketers a creditable draw — their fourth in four matches — on the final day of their match with Transvaal here today.

The New Zealanders, who were set to make 248 in 210 minutes to win, lost three wickets for 12 runs.

Then McGregor and Reid stopped the rout with some stubborn resistance which put on 122 in two hours 20 minutes for the fourth wicket. At the close the touring team were 185 for six.

McGregor, who reached his century in two hours 50 minutes, was unbeaten with 102, having hit 15 fours.

In the initial collapse, John Guy and Paul Barton fell to the fiery bowling of Test-man Peter Heine and John Sparling was run out.

Later Reid battled vigorously, being severe on an unimpressive Hughie Tayfield, and McGregor always looked sound.

Earlier an undefeated 41 by Transvaal opener Jan Falleron helped Transvaal reach 107 for five before declaring, after four wickets had tumbled for 65, against some fine deliveries from Gerry Heine, Dick Miller and John Alabaster.

Final scores were: Transvaal—307 for nine declared, 107 for five declared; New Zealand—185 for nine declared and 165 for six.—China Mail Special.

Sobers hits 80 for S. Australia

Adelaide, Nov. 6. Garfield Sobers (West Indies) and Duncan Sharpe (Pakistan) put South Australia into a commanding position on the third day of their Sheffield Shield cricket match against Western Australia here today.

Sobers, showing his best form since coming to Australia, hit eleven glorious fours in scoring 80 in South Australia's second innings. Sharpe—batted strongly for 50 not out. In drizzling rain, the pair added 79 in 65 minutes for the fifth wicket.

With one day left for play the scores are:

South Australia—340 and 258 for five (G. Sobers 80, U. Hall 58, D. Sharpe 50 not out); Western Australia—231 (B. Shepherd 69).—China Mail Special.

Match abandoned

Nairobi, Nov. 6. Heavy overnight rain which practically flooded the water-logged ground, prevented a ball being bowled in the match between F. R. Brown's cricket XI and Kenya here today. The match was abandoned.

The touring team, which is skippered by Freddie Brown, the former England Test captain, play their last game in Kenya when they meet the Kongoli Club on Wednesday and Thursday. Negotiations to extend the Kenya tour have broken down because several of the tourists have business commitments.

Brown's team meet Uganda in a three-day Test at Kampala this weekend.—China Mail Special.

UK soccer results

London, Nov. 6. Results of tonight's football matches were:

FA CUP
First Round Replays
Queens Park Rangers 2, Barnet 0 (Winners away to Wycombe Wanderers); Peterborough 2, Colchester 0 (Winners away to Exeter); Torquay United 1, Newport 1 (Replay; winners away to Wycombe Wanderers or Ashford).

ENGLISH LEAGUE
Division IV
Middlesbrough 0, Clapton 0 (Abandoned after 90 minutes because of fog).
OTHER MATCHES
Notts Forest 3, Malmesbury 0; Southampton 3, Exeter 1.—AFP.

Boxing match drawn

London, Nov. 6. England and the United States drew their international amateur boxing match here tonight, each winning four bouts.—Reuter.

It's marvellous to be back

Says STANLEY MATTHEWS

After spending as long as I have in the game I would not have expected one of my most thrilling moments to come now. But it has.

As the wonderful day went up from the huge crowd as I ran out on to the Stoke pitch last week, I said to myself: 'It's marvellous to be back'.

It was a thrilling moment. And as the game progressed I felt completely fit and thoroughly enjoyed the struggle. Knowing that the Stoke fans were rooting for me urged me on. As I raced down the right wing I felt as excited as I did when I first played there as a youngster so many years ago. It was like a trip down Memory Lane.

But before the match I felt very different. It was a feeling of tremendous responsibility that swept over me as I sat in the dressing-room.

Good-luck telegrams flooded in from friends all over the country. As I moved around Stoke, in the morning, many people in the street shouted their best wishes. They all wanted me to put on a good show.

Overwhelmed

Would I let them down? I kept asking myself. This is the time when you feel so terribly alone, waiting to go out before those thousands of eyes.

I don't think I let anyone down. We won the match, and the crowd showed their appreciation as we left the pitch. Amidst all the noise and excitement I felt overwhelmed. During the second half I roamed away from the right wing. This was because of close marking. It is no good allowing yourself to be marked out of a match. It is your job to get back into it.

So yet another landmark has been passed by me in the wonderful game of football that is my life.

Here's to the next game and here is to success for Stoke City. That is all I hoped for when I moved from Blackpool.

NOTICE

THE ROYAL HONG KONG JOCKEY CLUB

Special Cash Sweep on the Kwangtung Handicap
Saturday, 11th November, 1961

Over 2,700,000 tickets sold to date.
The sale of Cash Sweep Tickets on the above will close on Friday, 10th November, 1961 as follows:—

Prince's Building (facing Statue Square) at 6.00 p.m.

5, D'Aguilar Street at 6.00 p.m.

King's Road, North Point at 4.00 p.m.

382, Nathan Road, Kowloon at 4.00 p.m.

The Draw will be held on the first floor of the Public Enclave at the Race Course, Happy Valley, at 11.00 a.m. on Saturday, the 11th November, 1961.

By Order of the Stewards,
PEAT, MARWICK,
MITCHELL & CO.,
Treasurers.

THE GAMBOLS

HOT WATER

HE DIED TO SAVE HIS REPUTATION

—because his fans wouldn't let him retire

By FRANK WRIGHT

Manolete looked tired and pale. Born in poverty, he had become a millionaire in eight years as a senior matador — the greatest, highest-paid bullfighter of his age, the idol of all Spain. Now he had had enough and wanted to quit. There was nothing more he could achieve. He had long since proved that he was the supreme artist of the bullring, a matador of superhuman courage.

He was only 29, but looked about 40, a haggard, premature-looking man with a sad, scarred face. He had never had time to enjoy his hard-earned fortune.

It was 1946 and the king of matadors was making a sensational tour of Mexico. People slept all night on the pavements just to catch a glimpse of him.

There were pitched battles at the boxing offices; fans thought themselves lucky to get a 100-dollar seat for his first appearance in Mexico City.

A proud man

In that first Mexican fight, Manolete was badly gored in the leg and carried away on a stretcher. But he regained consciousness on the way to the ring infirmary, pushed aside people who tried to stop him, and hobbled back into the ring to finish off the bull before collapsing.

He was a proud man. Manolete went on to fight all over Mexico and South America, to maintain his fabulous reputation to fight every fight as though it were a battle royal.

Towards the end of the tour, he was exhausted and had taken to drinking whisky. His timing was beginning to fail; in Peru, he needed nine sword thrusts to kill a bull, and left the ring crying with shame.

Fans taunted him

It was after this £8,000-a-fight tour that Manolete, returning in triumph to Spain, announced that he planned to retire. Every day after he agreed to it was the right decision but not his ungrateful fans.

Instead of receiving farewell tributes from his adoring public, Manolete was taunted cruelly by the same followers who had just given him a hero's welcome home. The fans had created an idol; now they would destroy it.

His the Monster (their nickname for Manolete) becoming afraid of the horns? Jeered some newspapers. Fans said he had dared to fight only small bulls, that he was afraid of the public's new favourite, fast-rising Luis Miguel Dominguez.

There was no escape for a champion with Manolete's pride. He agreed to fight one last season in 1947 before quitting the ring forever.

He would tackle the largest bulls. A Spanish, complete and unimpaired, he was called to name. Then perhaps his critics would be silent.

Tossed and gored

Fights in Barcelona and Pamplona showed Manolete to be as great as ever or so it seemed. But then, in Madrid on July 16, he was tossed and gored in the leg and resumed fighting before he was fully fit.

He was determined not to give his critics the chance to sneer that he was dodging his challenges.

After one fight in the blazing August of 1947, he told a radio commentator "They are asking for more than I can give—always more and more. All I can say is that I wish the bull-fighting season were over."

So, on August 28, 1947, millionaire Manolete, slayer of 1,000 bulls, came to the small industrial town of Linares. It was a comparatively small event, but one of special importance for the Number One.

Boyhood ambition

It was important because he would be performing not far from his home town of Cordoba, where he had been born (Manuel Laureano Rodriguez y Sanchez) in the heart of the bull-fighting country.

There, as a frail, skinny boy, he had dedicated himself to bull-fighting so as to rescue his half-starved family from hunger and poverty.

It was also important because he would compete against the brilliant young Dominguez, his fiercest rival, and face the famous Miura "Bulls of Death".

Manolete went into the arena at Linares both physically and mentally unfit for a major struggle.

He looked old and pale—tired from late nights and drinking, the frustration of performing for a public that had grown bored by his perfection, and the heart-break of loving a woman of doubtful reputation.

Once, when asked why he never ran away from danger, Manolete replied that the public did not pay to see him hurt. They paid to see death—his death if they were lucky. He now believed this more than ever.

At Linares, however, he received a rare ovation. His young rival, brilliant 21-year-old Dominguez, had given a thrilling display; now Manolete knew his reputation was at stake, that he must perform with exceptional daring and skill. And so he did.

Turned his back

Never had the fans seen such an exhibition as Manolete gave the afternoon. The bull could not have been more difficult—a fast, sharp-horned beast with a frightening knack of turning within its own length and charging again.

The crowd watched in stunned silence as Manolete took the first charge without even moving his legs. Time and again he repeated such passes, with masterly timing and carrying the fighting closer and closer to the bull's horns. Then, with his familiar regal expression, he haughtily turned his back on the bull, working the cape behind him.

Worked in vain

Manolete was only reaffirming what he had long since proved—that he was second to none in his profession. Now the crowd was roaring constantly as he took up the sword and sank the blade precisely between the bull's shoulders.

But in seeking perfection, the matador dwelled too long in his task. Suddenly the bull jerked to the right and hooked Manolete in the groin. He was lifted in the air, spun on the horn and fell head first to the ground.

The stabbing horn had left a large deep wound which bled profusely. Manolete was dragged away from the rampaging bull and rushed to the infirmary.

at the same time, the bull staggered to the fence and collapsed, dead.

Doctors worked for hours to try to save the 40-year-old king of matadors. There were three blood transfusions.

Last words

At midnight, Manolete took three puffs from a cigarette and asked if he had killed the bull. Then he lay quietly until, shortly after five in the morning his head slumped to one side.

His mistress wept over his body and an entire nation was plunged into mourning. By his glorious death, Manolete had finally satisfied his fans and silenced his critics. Now he could rest in peace.

(All rights reserved)

Turning his back on the bull, he worked the cape behind him

TITONI

Airmaster

... is always at your service for accurate time-keeping.

SOLE AGENTS: KOO BROTHERS & CO. TEL: 36175, 24901.

UK SOCCER NEWS

By JAMES CONNOLLY

Roy Crawford, the 24-year-old Ipswich centre-forward, rockets along the goal trail as the new shock challenger for the England World Cup spot because he took the "curb your enthusiasm" advice from manager Alf Ramsey.

Ramsey bought Crawford from Portsmouth for £6,000 three years ago. Last season he scored 40 League goals. Today he is worth £20,000-plus.

Ramsey, who watched Crawford twice before buying him, told me: "He moved intelligently and played with plenty of heart and enthusiasm, but he was not lasting the full game."

"I felt that perhaps, because of this enthusiasm, he was trying to cram 90 minutes into an hour."

"When he came to Ipswich we discussed his style and then Ray got down to improving his footwork and learning how to pace himself over the game."

Gordon Clark, the manager who left West Bromwich a fortnight ago, is almost certain to be appointed assistant manager and chief scout to Sheffield Wednesday. Chelsea have a short list of three for their new chief scout's job... former England and Spurs star Eddie Batty, now coach to Leyton Orient, is the new tip to become Charlton manager.

Manchester City, still chasing a too tight winger, have given up hope of getting Barry Jones, the 18-year-old Swansea flier. They are ready to pay £15,000 for Mickey Lill, who cost Everton close on £20,000 from Wolves last year, but they may switch to Norman Deeley, the determined little outside-right Wolves are ready to sell.

Watford offer goalkeeper Jimmy Linton and ex-Arsenal full-back Keith Nicholas for sale, but Watford are also ready to buy.

Aston Villa will not hold reserve goalkeeper Nigel Sims if they can get a replacement. I would not be surprised to see Joe Mercer going for Jimmy Brown (St Mirren).

Derek Keegan, the bustling 40-year-old Birmingham inside-left, has shed 11lb in the last six weeks. "I was about 14 stone and I felt that I was carrying too much weight," he told me.

"Now I am down to just over 13 stone. I did it by hard work and watching my diet sensibly. I am feeling better and enjoying my game more."

Two wretches have brought success to Dave Smith and Aldershot Town, his unassuming Fourth Division club.

He moved two inside-forwards, Bobby Stepney became a wing half and Bobby Howfield a left winger.

Now the big clubs including Newcastle, are trailing them as Aldershot soar towards promotion. They do not want to sell, but they cannot afford the luxury of holding on to players with big transfer potential.

They have asked Fulham for Bobby Keetch, a utility defender who plays full-back or centre half. They are also keenly interested in Leeds wing half Bobby Cameron.

Southampton are interested in Len Julians (Forest), the former Arsenal inside-forward, who would like to return South.

Brentford and Northampton may go for Stan Crowther, the wing half Brighton sacked last week. They have transfer-listed former Southend utility forward Dudley Price, at his own request... Expect Portsmouth to sign Bobby Campbell (Wigan Athletic), the former Liverpool half back... Brighton watch Peter Hauser, Blackpool's South African wing half.

Luton centre-forward search may end with a bid for Tony Nicholas (Brighton) or George Kerby (Plymouth). It could be an exchange deal.

Brighton and Plymouth were at Kentworth-road yesterday, watching Luton reserves against Spurs. So were Fulham, who like wing half Alwynn McGuffie.

Bad news for Wolves. International inside-right Peter Boreabend, now having daily injections for a leg injury, may be out for some weeks.

Struggling Chelsea are still favourites for Ian White, but Leicester cannot afford to release their Scottish wing-half until they are clear of injuries.

Grimsby, with promotion the aim high. The centre-forward they fancy is Geoff Strong (Aston).

Sports Diary

TODAY

HKFA Council meeting, Sports-road, 6 pm.

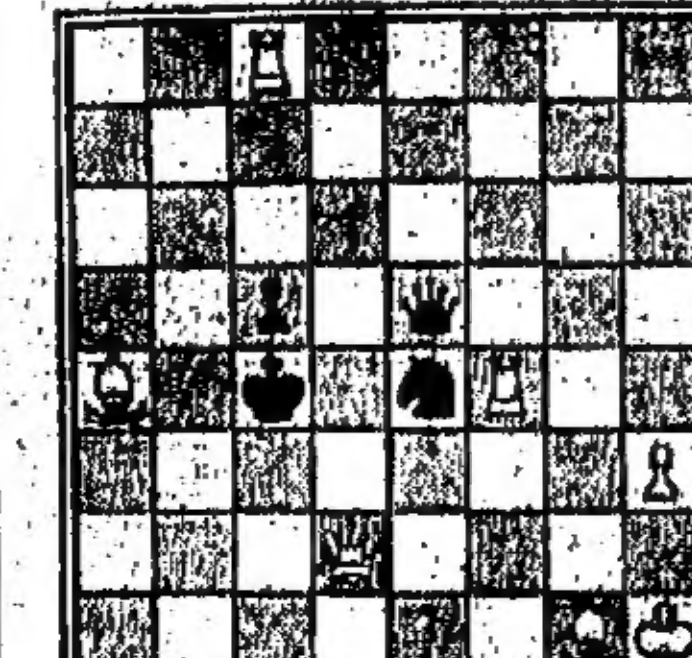

Archery
Beginners at RACEAC, 5.30 pm.
Auction
Auction of Racehorses "Sincerely Yours" at Royal Hongkong Jockey Club stables, Shan Kwong-road, 5.45 pm.

TOMORROW

Soccer
Inter-schools League matches at Wan Yan College ground, 3.30 pm.
Meeting
HK Chinese Football Association meeting, CAAF Bldg, 6 pm.

CHESS

By LEONARD BARDEN

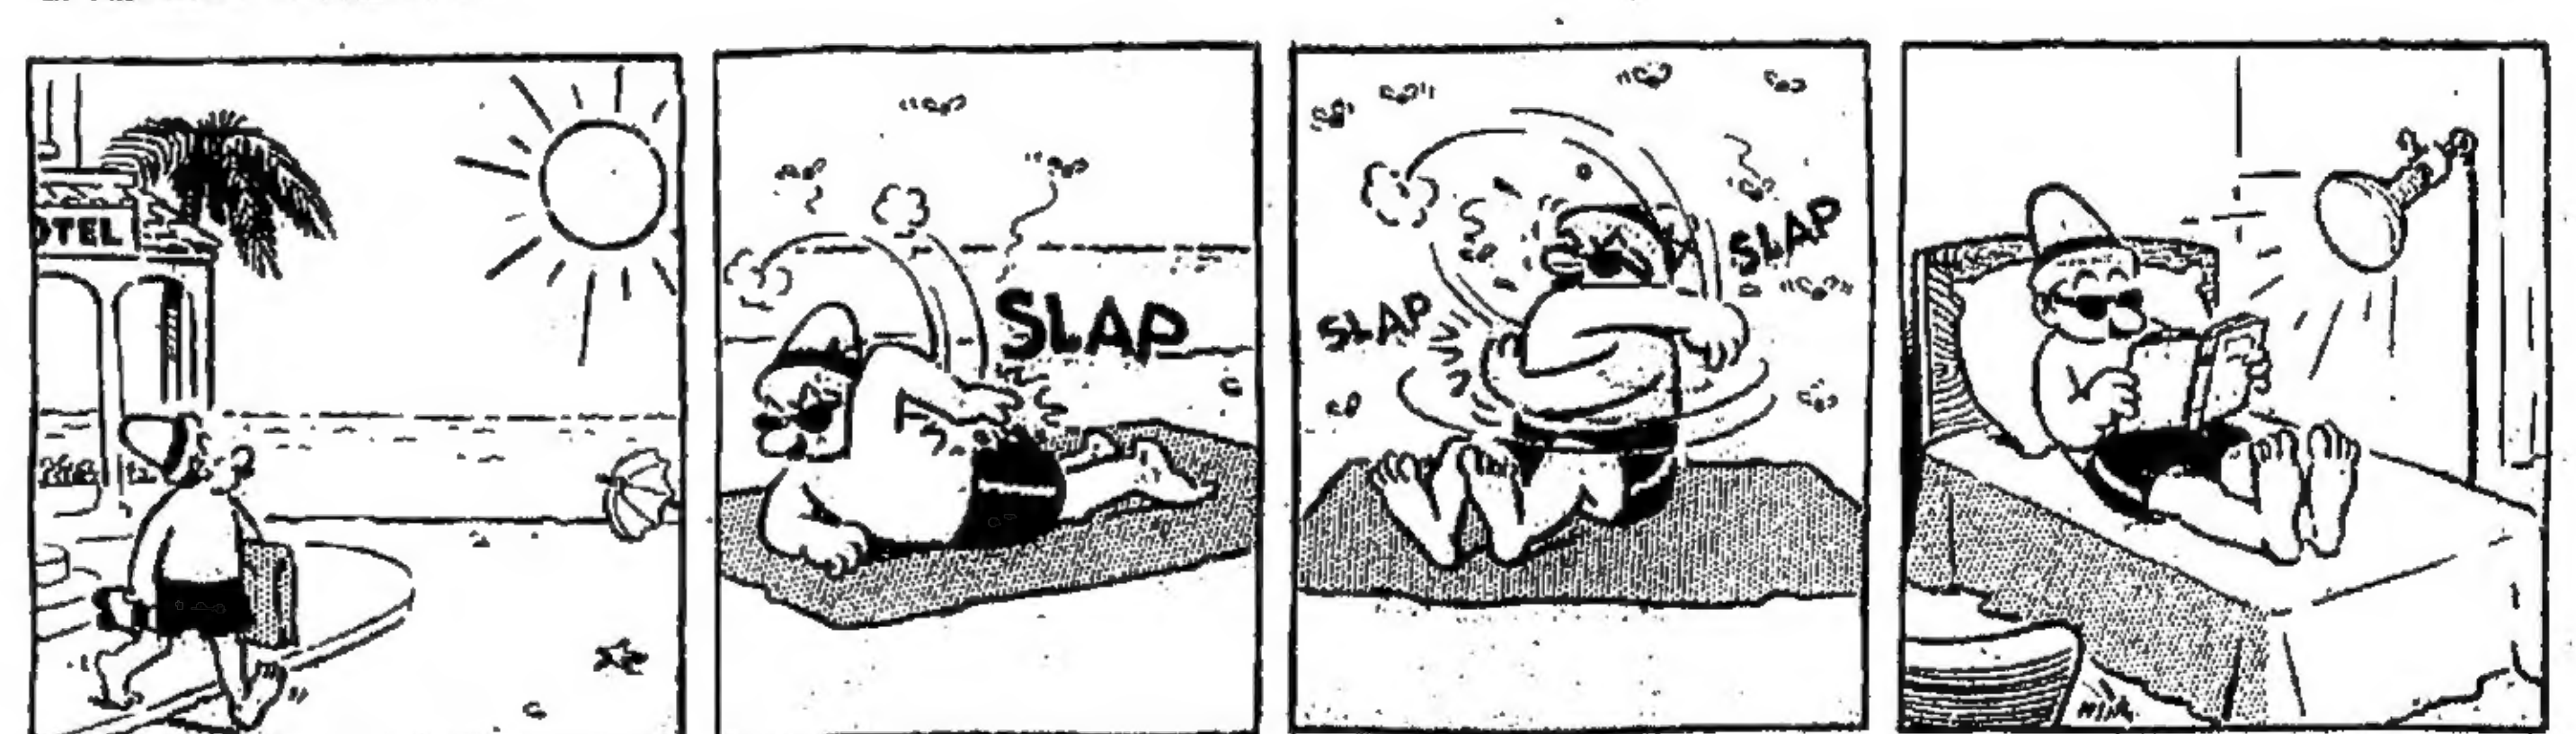

Here is a problem by B. J. de C. Andrade (Observer, 1925). White to play and mate in two moves.

Four D. Jones by MADDOCKS

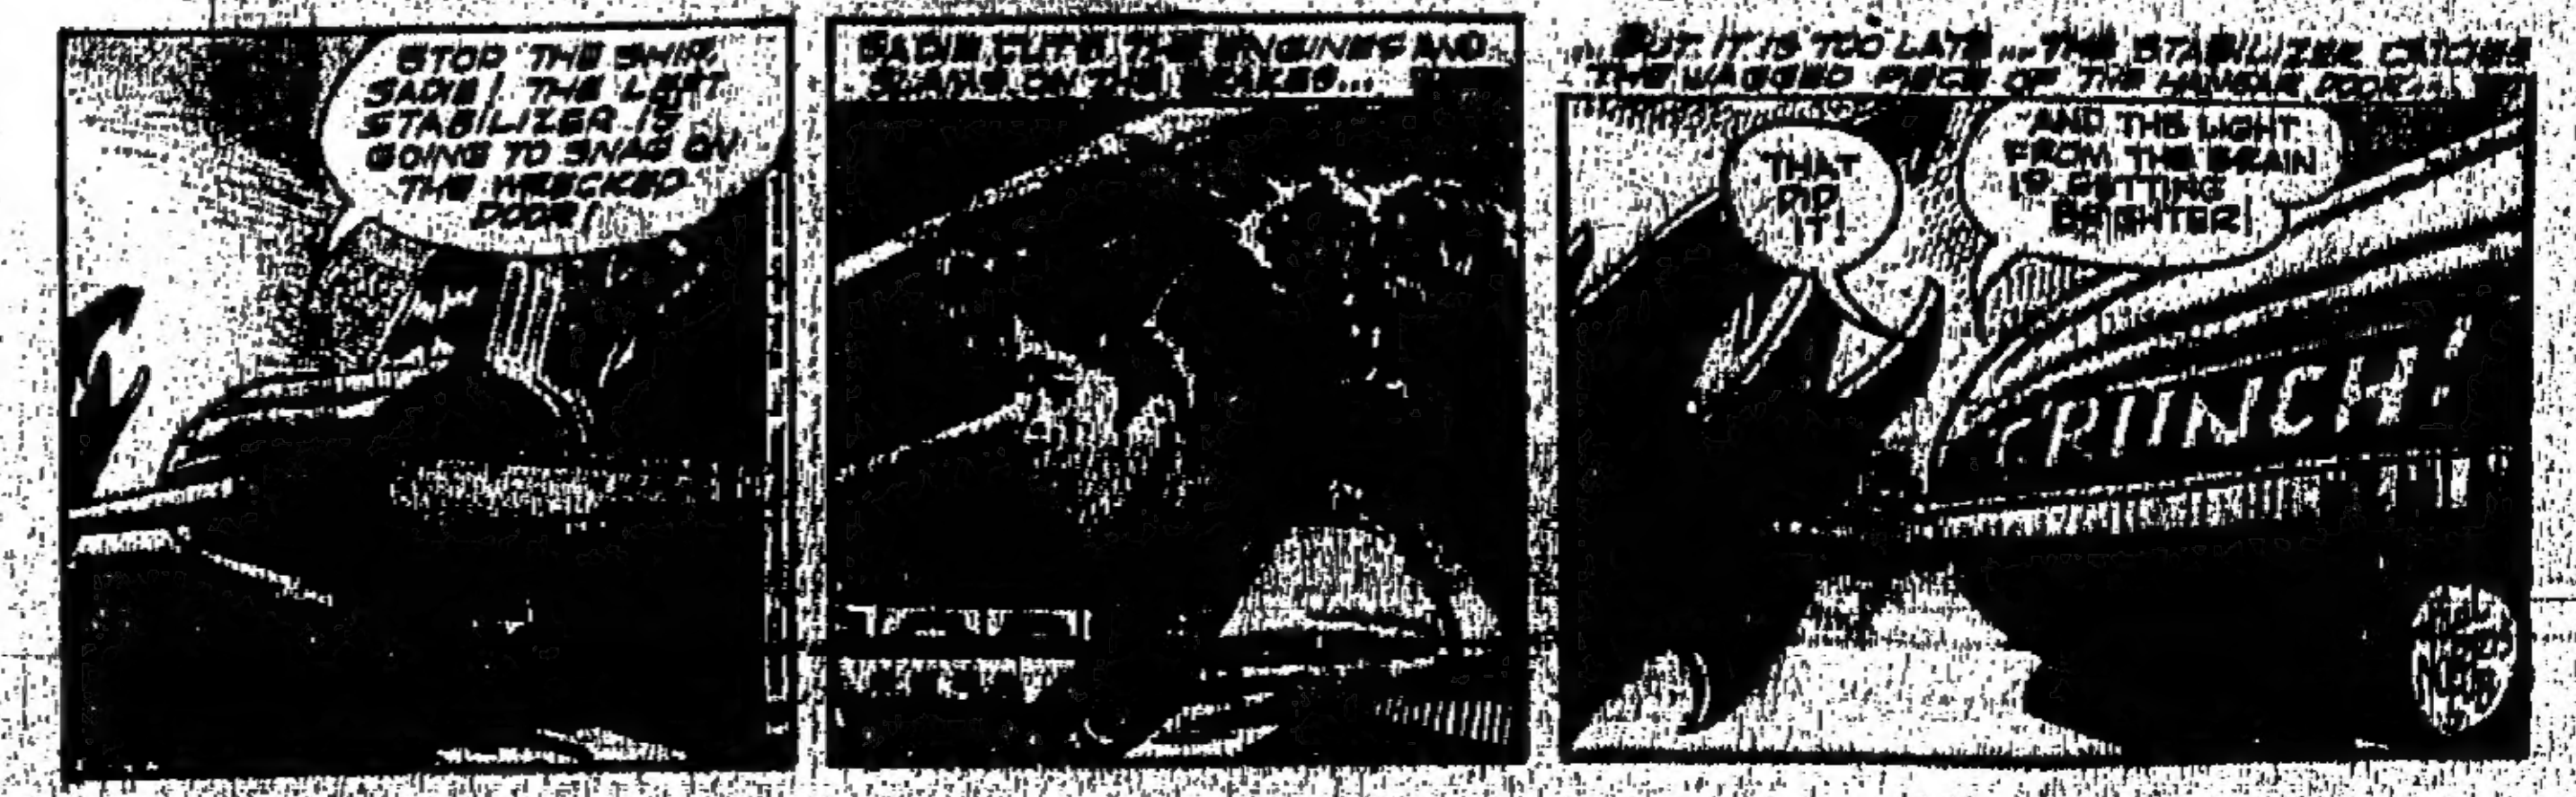

FERD'NAND

THE FLUTTERS

BRICK BRADFORD

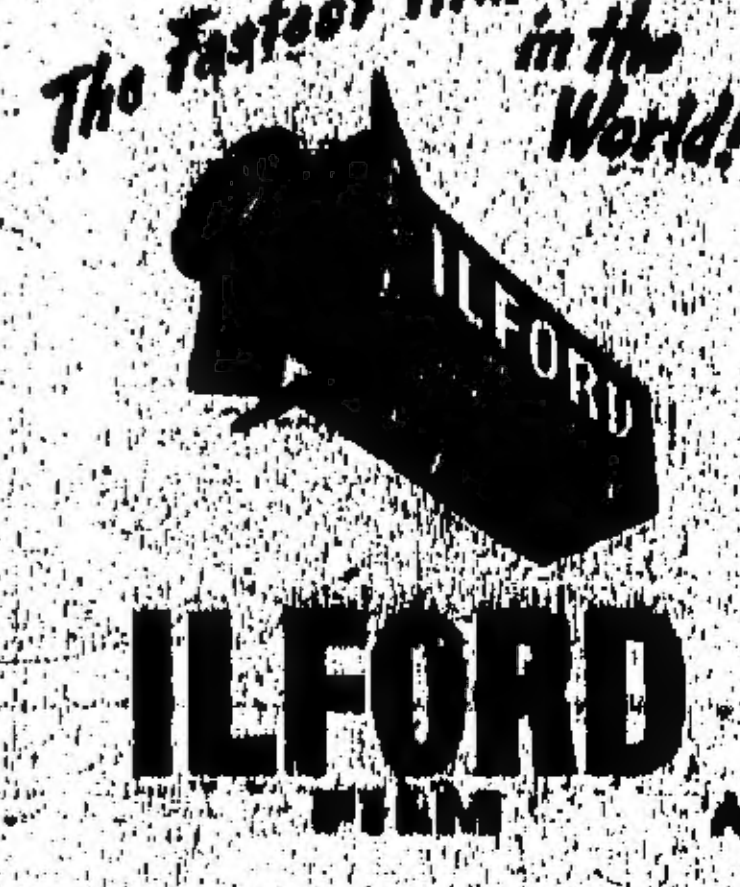

By Mik

SWISSAIR
CONVAIR JETS,
NOW SERVING
HONG KONG

HAVE A BREAK

By Paul Norris

JOHN HASTIE & CO., LTD.
SHIPS STEERING GEAR.
ENGINEERING EQUIPMENT CO., LTD.
208 Chartered Bank Building. Tel. 27789

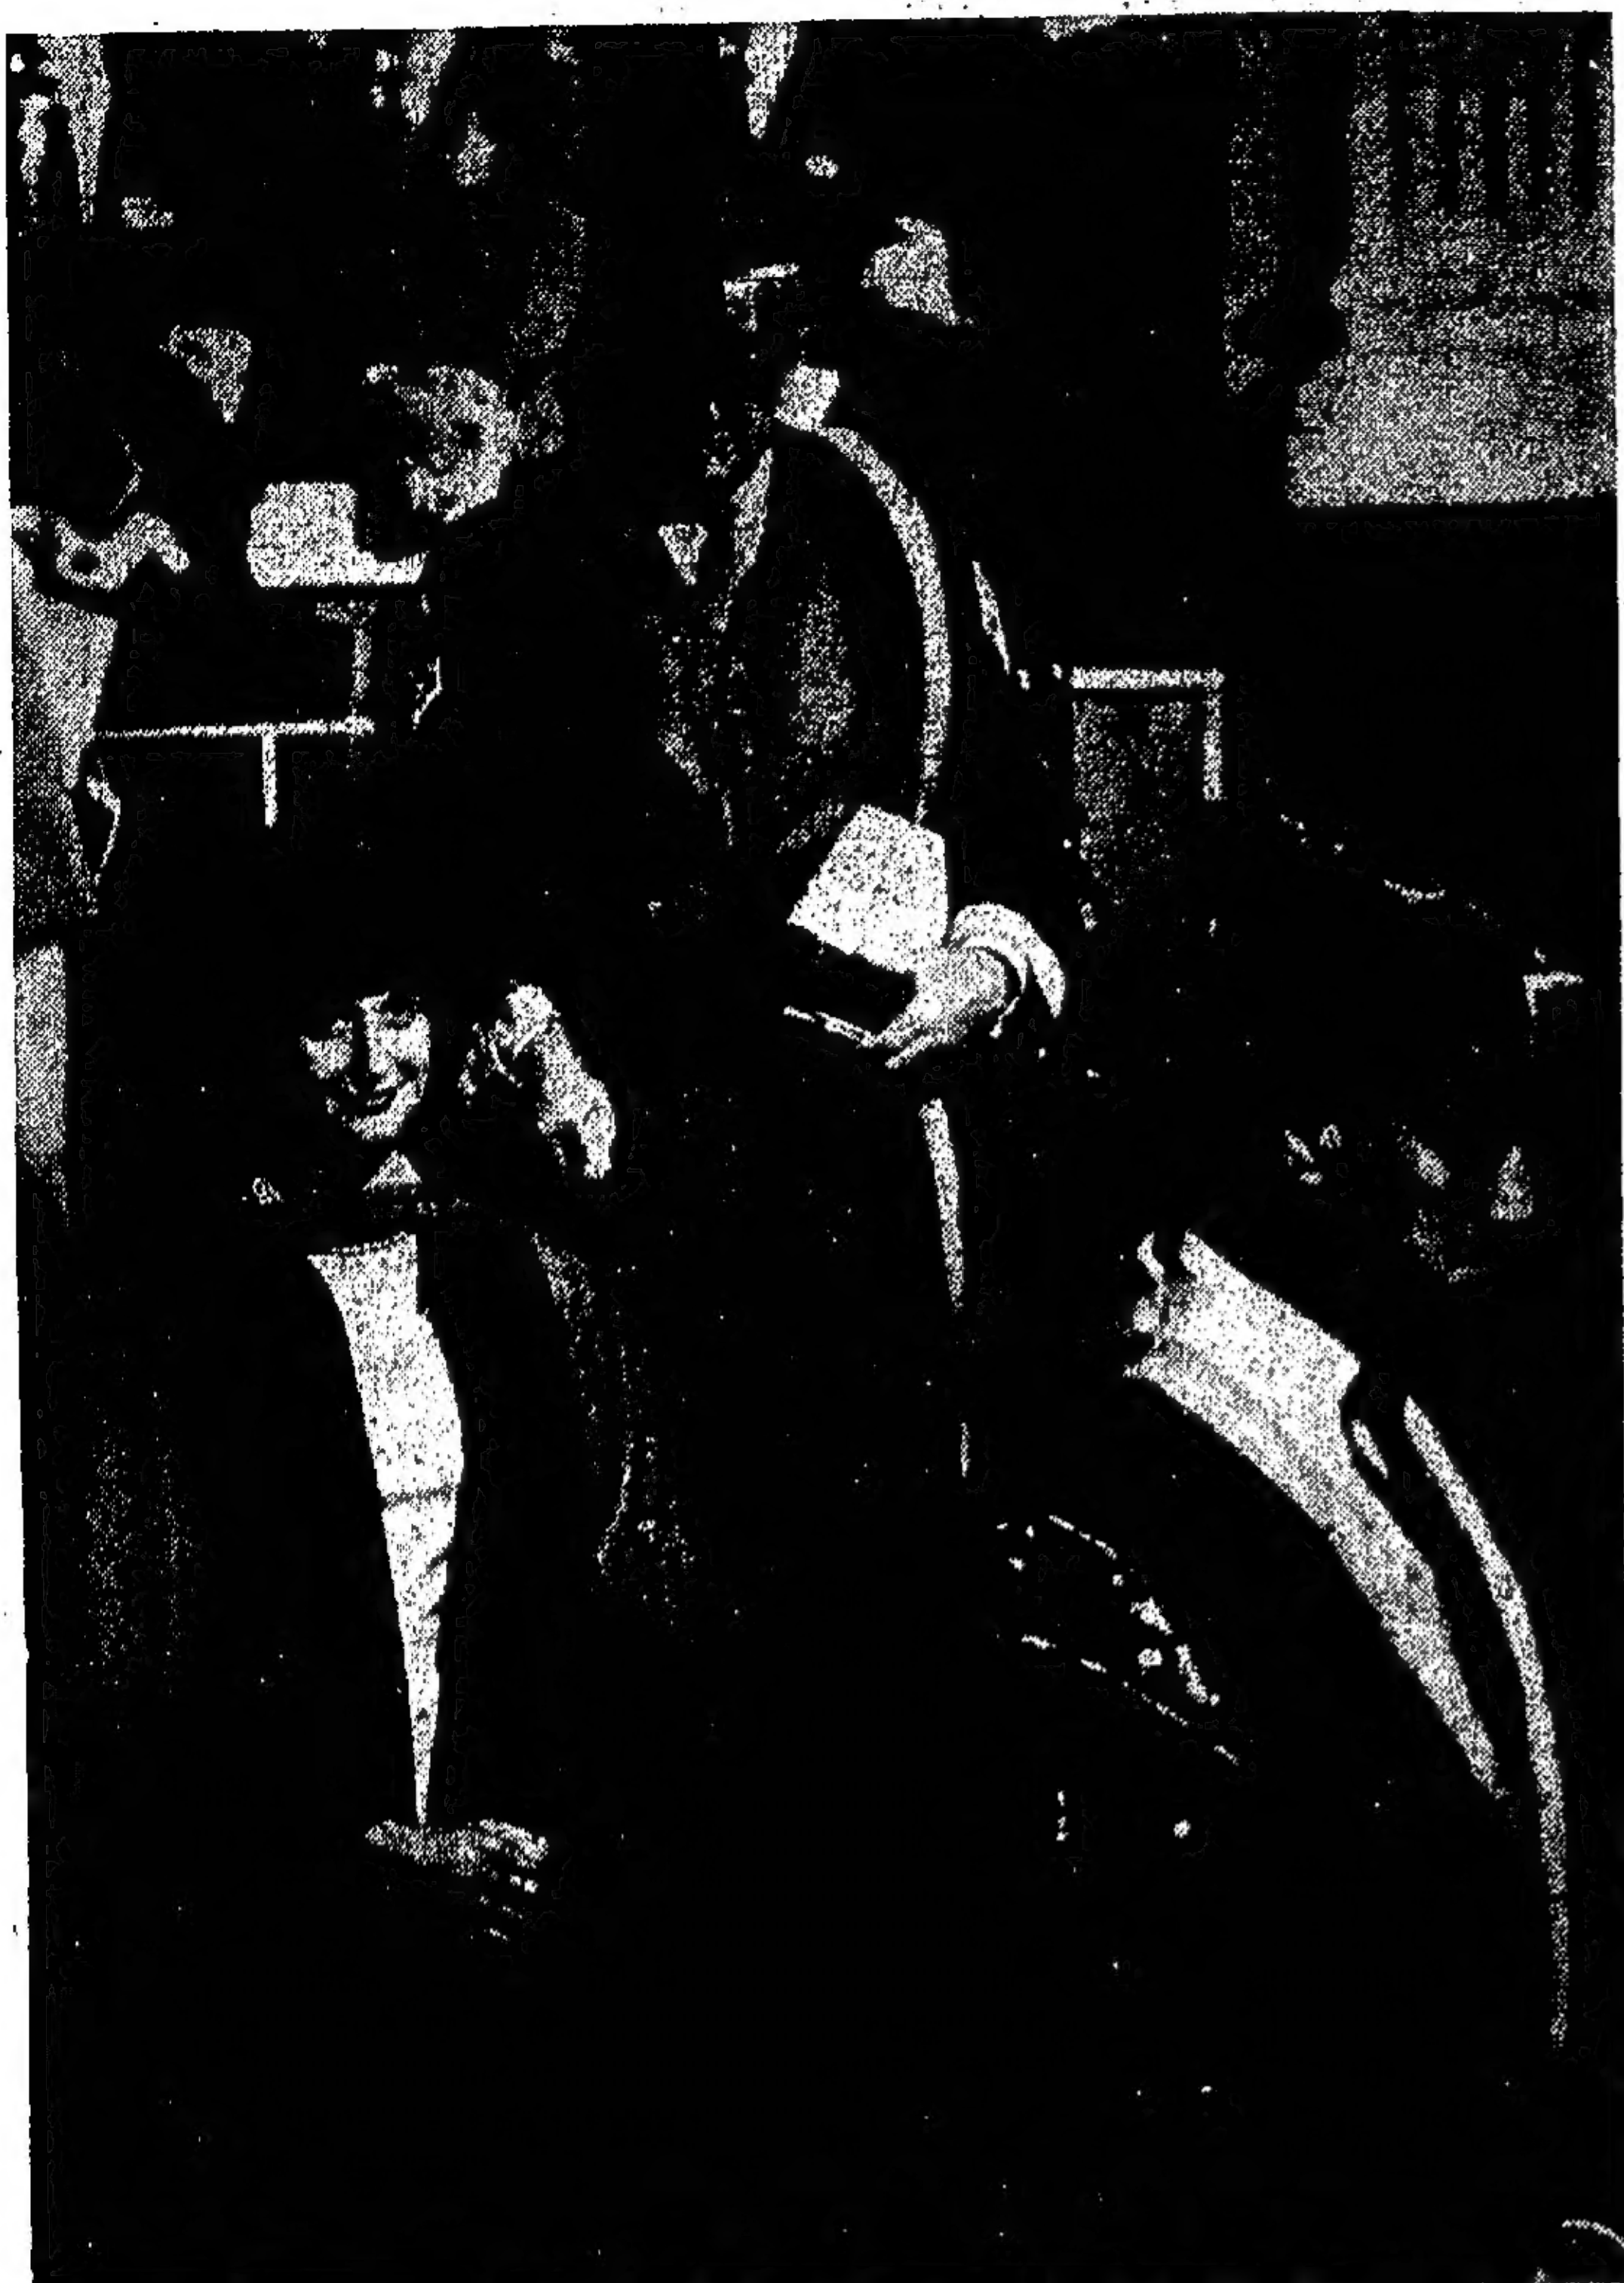

More local news on P. 4

CHINA MAIL

Page 10

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1961.

'write fashion new' NEW
Lady Sheaffer
SERIFONT FOUNTAIN PEN
Sole Agents: UNITED PAPER CO., LTD.

Day at the University

These photographs show how Princess Alexandra spent her first day of official public engagements at Hongkong University. In the morning she received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Later she visited and toured the new Students Union building and in the afternoon attended a garden party.

The picture on the far left shows Princess Alexandra leaving the Lake Yew Hall after a ceremony in which she received her honorary degree. She is accompanied by Dr L. T. Ride and the Governor, Sir Robert Black. In the picture below, Dr Ride greets Princess Alexandra on the steps of the Hall when she arrived. The picture on the near left shows Princess Alexandra on the roof of the new Students Union building. On the right Princess Alexandra is seen reading the Queen's reply to the Loyal Address at the University Congregation. The picture above shows the Princess meeting a member of the University staff at the garden party yesterday afternoon.

THE

Kenwood

chef

THE WORLD'S
MOST VERSATILE
MIXER

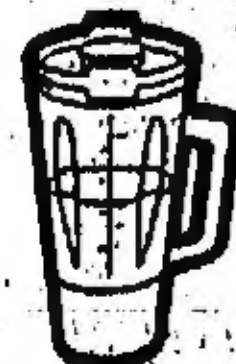

The Kenwood Chef complete with three beaters, liquidiser, bowl and a big recipe and instruction book is yours for only HK$999.00 (Easy terms are available)

JUST FOUR OF THE CHEF'S WONDERFUL ATTACHMENTS

MINCER

LIQUIDISER

POTATO PEELER

CAN OPENER

G.E.C.

The Kenwood Chef has more attachments—does more jobs for you—than any other food preparing machine.

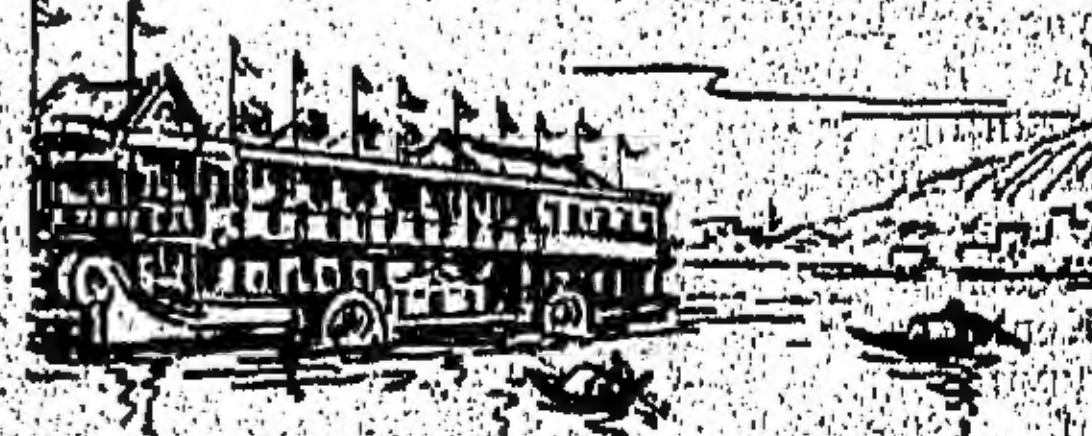

Enquiries & Sales: G.E.C. Showrooms:

Union House Arcade, H.K. Tel. 31135
116, Argyle Street, Kln. Tel. 82275

POP by Goo

I'LL PROVE
I'M NOT STALLING—
COULD YOU TRY AGAIN
AT THE FIRST OF
THE MONTH?

Carlsberg

ANY TIME
ANY PLACE
Carlsberg
KEEPS YOU
SMILING

